GUIDELINES AGREED BETWEEN THE POLICE INTEGRITY COMMISSION AND THE OMBUDSMAN AFTER CONSULTATION WITH THE COMMISSIONER OF POLICE UNDER THE POLICE SERVICE ACT

INTRODUCTION

Part 8A of the Police Service Act concerns the handling of complaints about the conduct of police.

Defining conduct

Police conduct is broadly defined as "any action or inaction (or alleged action or inaction) of a police officer" (s. 121).

Defining complaints

Under the Police Service Act, the term complaint covers:

- complaints in the ordinary sense of the word – ie. where a person alleges that an officer has acted illegally, improperly or unreasonably.
- 'police internal complaints': police may prepare a document or report which indicates that a police officer has acted illegally, improperly or unreasonably. Police are required under Regulation 20 of the Police Service

Regulation to report the possible commission of a criminal offence or other misconduct by another police officer. The police officer who has prepared the document or report is not complaining about police misconduct in the ordinary sense of the word. However, for the purpose of the Police Service Act, such reports are considered to be 'complaints' (see The Ombudsman v Commissioner of Police (1987) 11 NSWLR 386). Because these complaints are generated by police in the course of their duty, they have come to be known as 'police internal complaints'.

Complaints allege or indicate police conduct which is:

- criminal (s.122(l)(a)).
- corrupt (s.122(l)(b)).
- unlawful (but not criminal or corrupt) (s.122(l)(c)).
- conduct that, although not unlawful (s.122(i)(d)):
- is unreasonable, unjust, oppressive or improperly discriminatory in its effect.
- arises from improper motives.
- arises from a decision that has taken irrelevant matters into consideration.
- arises from a mistake in law or fact.
- is conduct of a kind for which reasons should have (but have not) been given.
- in accordance with a law or established practice that is, or may be, unreasonable, unjust, oppressive or improperly discriminatory in its effect (s. 122(l)(e)).

AGREEMENTS

Various provisions of Part 8A of the Police Service Act permit the Police Integrity Commission and the Ombudsman, after consultation with the Commissioner of Police, to agree that certain types of complaint need not be dealt with under the Police Service Act.

Section 122(2) allows for an agreement that certain matters do not need to be treated as complaints for the purposes of the Police Service Act.

The definition of "notifiable complaint" in section 121 allows for an agreement that only certain complaints must be notified to the Ombudsman.

Section 139(1) allows for an agreement that certain complaints do not need to be investigated under the Police Service Act.

It is important to recognise that, even if

- a matter is not considered to be a complaint, or
- a complaint is not notifiable to the Ombudsman, or
- a complaint does not need to be investigated under the Police Service Act, the Police Service should take appropriate action in relation to the matter. This includes such managerial action as may be necessary in all the circumstances of the matter.

The Police Service itself may have occasion to consider how a particular matter has been dealt with. The Ombudsman can and must audit how the Police Service has dealt with complaints. The Police Integrity Commission is also entitled to monitor and audit how the Police Service has dealt with complaints and other matters. For all these reasons, proper records must be kept in relation to the action taken with respect to any matter.

SECTION 122(2) AGREEMENT – MATTER WHICH NEED NOT BE TREATED AS COMPLAINTS

The effect of section 122(2) is that the Police Integrity Commission and the Ombudsman, after consultation with the Commissioner of Police, may agree that certain kinds of "complaints" should not be regarded as complaints for the purposes of the Police Service Act.

The Police Integrity Commission and the Ombudsman, after consultation with the Commissioner, hereby agree that – subject to the exceptions discussed below – the following kinds of Category 2 complaints should not be treated as "complaints" and therefore need not be dealt with under Part 8A of the Police Service Act. (The matters listed have been identified on the basis that they refer to Police Service documents and reports dealing with issues of police conduct that are usually so inherently administrative and/or managerial in nature that they should not be regarded as "complaints". In addition, certain customer service issues are included.)

1. Reports and records prepared by police officers and other Police Service personnel as part of the process of the Police Service's performance management system.

2. Reports and other records about the following types of "management" issues:

- a) grooming e.g. uniform, footwear, jewellery, hair and personal hygiene.
- b) absence from duty.
- c) unsatisfactory sick report.
- d) failure to commence or complete rostered shifts.
- e) lateness.
- f) misuse of motor vehicles.
- g) late submission of files and other delays.
- h) rudeness.
- i) minor unprofessional conduct of a kind which, upon coming to notice, can be appropriately dealt with and promptly finalised in the work place environment.
- j) failure to provide customer service unless the alleged failure involves death, injury or significant financial loss.
- k) failure to return property.

3. Reports and records of debt matters.

4. Reports and records about recruitment and promotion.

Exceptions: If any of the above matters raises an issue of a kind falling within the types of complaints which must be notified to the Ombudsman (see below), the matter must be treated as a complaint, registered on the complaints information system, and notified to the Ombudsman.

SECTION 121 AGREEMENT – COMPLAINTS WHICH MUST BE NOTIFIED TO THE OMBUDSMAN

All Category 1 complaints must be notified to the Police Integrity Commission and the Ombudsman (section 130(2)).

Complaints which do not fall within category 1 are called category 2 complaints.

The definition of "notifiable complaint" allows the Police Integrity Commission and the Ombudsman to agree, after consultation with the Commissioner of Police, that only some types of Category 2 complaints must be notified to the Ombudsman.

The Police Integrity Commission and the Ombudsman, after consultation with the Commissioner of Police, hereby agree that only the following types of Category 2 complaints must be notified to the Ombudsman:

Internal Police Complaints

1. Criminal conduct.
2. Conduct which is of a nature that might warrant the taking of action under section 181D of the Police Service Act or “reviewable action” as defined by section 173 of the Police Service Act.
3. Lack of integrity.
4. Serious incompetence.
5. Harassment or victimisation of any person.
6. Possible payback complaints, as identified by the Internal Witness Support Unit.
7. Any inappropriate conduct involved in serious incidents of the following types:
 - (a) deaths and injuries in custody
 - (b) shootings by police
 - (c) police motor vehicle pursuits resulting in death or serious injury

Complaints from members of the public

All complaints from members of the public must be notified to the Ombudsman other than the following matters:

1. Complaints that come within the s 122(2) agreement – matters which need not be treated as complaints.
2. Complaints that come within the s 139(1) agreement – matters which need not be investigated.

SECTION 139(1) AGREEMENT – MATTERS WHICH DO NOT NEED TO BE INVESTIGATED UNDER THE POLICE SERVICE ACT

Section 139(1) permits the Police Integrity Commission and the Ombudsman to agree, after consultation with the Commissioner, that certain complaints which must be notified to the Ombudsman nevertheless do not need to be investigated under the Police Service Act.

The Police Integrity Commission and the Ombudsman, after consultation with the Commissioner, hereby agree that the following types of complaints do not need to be investigated under the Police Service Act. They should be dealt with in the following way:

1. Complaints about the issuing of traffic or parking infringement notices (except those alleging serious incompetence or a lack of integrity including fabrication of evidence).
 - Requests for the notice to be reviewed should be forwarded to the Infringement Processing Bureau.
 - Where requests for review also involve allegations of rudeness or incivility, those allegations shall be referred directly to the relevant Local Area Commander for appropriate action.
2. Legal representations for reviews of criminal charges (except those alleging a lack of integrity or serious incompetence).
 - The representations should be referred to Prosecuting Services for consideration and response to the person making the representations.
