Criteria for Assessment of Applications

The basic objective in awarding an exploration licence is to select the work program most likely to evaluate the prospectivity of the licence area and discovering petroleum within the initial five-year term of the licence. Work program bids will be assessed taking account of the criteria listed below. All these criteria are used when selecting the winning bid. It is important to note that the timing of activities, especially the drilling of wells, and the extent of the guaranteed nature of the program carry substantial weight in the assessment process.

The most important criteria for assessment of work programs are:

- number of exploration wells (dry-hole basis) to be drilled, their timing and the anticipated number of exploration objectives to be drilled by the wells;
- extent that the wells proposed to be drilled are supported by adequate seismic or other geophysical techniques;
- number of years that the applicant is willing to guarantee the work program;
- adequacy of financial resources and technical expertise available to the applicant;
- past performance in fulfilling work program commitments of the applicant elsewhere in Australia.

Secondary criteria that may be taken into account are:

- the amount and nature of seismic surveying to be carried out and its timing;
- other data acquisition and seismic reprocessing to be carried out.

In addition to the above criteria, where work program bids are similar, the benefits of the introduction of new explorers into the area (including intention with regard to establishing an office in South Australia) may be taken into account. It should be noted that there are no criteria limiting the number of (P)ELs which may be offered to one applicant providing the applicant has adequate financial resources to complete all programs. In the case of 'cascading bids' (i.e. multiple or hybrid bids for an area by one applicant or joint venture) only the highest of the bids will be considered.

Dated 15 March 2001.

R. A. LAWS, Director Petroleum, Delegate of the Minister for Primary Industries and Resources.

Criteria for Assessment of Applications

Bids will be assessed taking account of the criteria listed below. All these criteria are used when selecting the winning bid. It is important to note that the timing of well drilling may be taken into account. As stated above, proposals to drill more than one well in each block will not be taken into account in the bid assessment process. The bidder with the highest cash bid will be successful. The most important criteria for assessment of CO2001 work programs are:

- amount of cash bid;
- adequacy of financial resources and technical expertise available to the applicant;
- applicant's past performance in fulfilling work program commitments elsewhere in South Australia;
- for blocks CO2001-B and D, whether any proposed well is guaranteed.

The timing of drilling will be taken into account if cash bids are equal. In addition to the above criteria, where bids are similar, the benefits of the introduction of new explorers into the area (including intention with regard to establishing an office in South Australia) may be taken into account.

It should be noted that there are no criteria limiting the number of (P)ELs which may be offered to one applicant providing the applicant has adequate financial resources to complete all programs. In the case of 'cascading bids' (i.e. multiple or hybrid bids for an area by one applicant or joint venture) only the highest of the bids will be considered.

Dated 15 March 2001.
