NATIONAL ELECTRICITY LAW

PURSUANT to Section 41 (3) of the National Electricity Law (NEL), the Australian Energy Market Commission (AEMC) hereby publishes the following Ministerial Council on Energy (MCE) direction for the Stage 3 Demand-Side Participation (DSP) Review:

MCE direction to the AEMC

Section 41 of the National Electricity Law (NEL) enables the MCE to direct the AEMC to review any matter relating to the NEM or any other market for electricity.

Pursuant to Section 41 of the NEL, the MCE directs the AEMC to undertake the Stage 3 DSP Review in accordance with this Terms of Reference.

Consistent with the National Electricity Objective (NEO), the Stage 3 DSP Review should seek to identify market and regulatory arrangements that enable the participation of both supply and demand side options in achieving an economically efficient demand/supply balance in the electricity market.

In July 2010, the MCE provided its response to Stage 2 of the DSP Review. The MCE noted the AEMC's overall finding that, in the context of the current technology and other related workstreams that have been identified or are under way, and subject to a number of proposed amendments, the National Electricity Rules (Rules) do not materially bias against the use of DSP in the NEM. Further, it found that overall, the costs and opportunities to participate in demand-side activities provided by the Rules framework are appropriate.

The MCE generally supported the findings and recommendations of the AEMC's Stage 2 DSP Review, including that a number of aspects of the Rules could be improved to further enhance the efficient participation of the demand side in the NEM.

The MCE notes that DSP and network regulation issues are being considered in other broader AEMC reviews including its Transmission Framework Review and Review into the use of Total Factor Productivity for the Determination of Prices and Revenue and expects that any recommendations arising from these reviews will take into account any potential impacts on the viability of, and incentives for, DSP.

The MCE recognises that the Stage 2 DSP Review was undertaken with an explicit focus on the Rules to determine whether there were material barriers to the efficient and effective use of DSP in the NEM. The AEMC Stage 3 DSP Review should have a broader focus covering electricity market frameworks for facilitating efficient investment in, and use of, DSP in the NEM. The review of electricity market frameworks would include all electricity market arrangements and transactions that impact on the electricity supply chain, the Rules, other national and jurisdictional rules and regulations and market behaviours.

The AEMC Stage 2 DSP Final Report recommended that there was a need for a further review to consider the implications of the introduction of smart grid and smart meter technologies in the electricity market. The MCE also notes the scope for significant load control capability to be introduced into the NEM. The AEMC should therefore investigate issues associated with realising the benefits that may be achieved from the deployment of these technologies.

The MCE has also considered the AEMC Stage 2 DSP Final Report in conjunction with the MCE's requirements under the Council of Australian Governments' National Partnership Agreement on Energy Efficiency and National Strategy on Energy Efficiency (NSEE) which seeks to deliver a nationally consistent and co-operative approach to energy efficiency.

Whilst the AEMC found no material bias against DSP in the Rules, there are a number of key elements of NSEE measure 2.1.1. that warrant consideration as part of the Stage 3 DSP Review. While these elements are external to the market rules, they nevertheless have the potential to impact on efficient DSP and market outcomes. The key elements requiring further examination specifically relate to the efficient operation of price signals and regulatory arrangements for energy efficiency and demand-side management in promoting efficient DSP in the NEM.

In undertaking the Stage 3 DSP Review, the AEMC should have regard to the key areas outlined below, as well as any other matters it considers relevant to the objective of facilitating economically efficient DSP as an alternative to supply side options, including during periods of low or limited reserve capacity, in achieving an efficient demand/supply balance in the NEM. These key areas should be considered in a holistic manner, along with the consideration of the appropriate role for DSP in providing efficient alternatives to supply side options in the NEM.

Efficient operation of price signals

The AEMC should assess the technical and administrative restrictions and barriers to the efficient operation of price signals in the NEM and their potential to promote efficient consumer DSP through enhancing consumers' ability to make informed choices concerning their use of electricity services, including the quantity and timing of their electricity consumption. Considerations should include, but not be limited to:

- the level of incentives and any limitations to retailers reflecting efficient price signals in customer tariff structures;
- alignment of incentives between the participants in the electricity supply chain to facilitate cost-reflective prices;
- the potential for increased retail competition to enhance the provision and operation of efficient price signals;
- the potential for smart meter, smart grid and load control technologies to enhance the provision and operation of efficient price signals (both directly or by facilitating the entry of new market participants);
- the incentives for, and ability of, different customer groups to adjust their demand patterns in response to a price signal; and
- any issues related to the availability and usefulness to consumers of other information which would facilitate a response to price signals, or otherwise enhance the transparency or communication of DSP opportunities.

Effectiveness of regulatory arrangements for energy efficiency

The AEMC should assess the potential for energy efficiency measures and policies to promote efficient use of, and investment in, DSP in the stationary energy sector, and undertake a stocktake and analysis of regulatory arrangements for energy efficiency measures and policies that impact on or seek to integrate with the NEM, such as retailer obligation schemes. Considerations should include, but not be limited to, the potential:

- of measures that place energy efficiency obligations on market participants, including generators, retailers and distributors to:
 - facilitate efficient consumer DSP and electricity use decisions;
 - recognise or reward efficient consumer DSP actions;
 - invest directly in energy efficiency opportunities; or
 - enhance the level and transparency of information identifying DSP opportunities.
- for market institutions to support efficient use of, and investment in, DSP through NEM infrastructure and systems, such as through market settlement systems and new smart metering/smart grid technologies;
- costs and benefits of such measures for all market participants and institutions, and the extent to which these parties are better positioned to facilitate energy efficiency decisions than external third parties or users themselves;
- enforcement and compliance procedures that may be required if regulatory requirements and obligations are imposed on market participants; and
- of such measures to support the NEO, including quantitative assessments where appropriate.

Market frameworks to maximise value to consumers from services enabled by new technologies, such as smart grids.

The AEMC should assess the market frameworks that would be necessary to maximise the economic value to consumers of services enabled by new technologies, including smart grid/smart meter and other load control technologies. Considerations should include, but not be limited to, measures for:

- enabling effective interaction between competitive and regulated services;
- regulating access to infrastructure, data and customers;
- encouraging efficient investment in new technology and services;
- enabling more sophisticated price signals to be passed through to customers; and
- ensuring the rights and interests of customers are protected.

In undertaking the review of electricity market frameworks and identifying any changes which would facilitate efficient DSP decisions, the AEMC shall have regard to the NEO in the NEL.

The MCE notes that work is already under way in relation to some of the key areas above, including work on smart meters and smart grids. The AEMC should consider interactions with these existing work programs when undertaking the Stage 3 DSP Review to maximise synergies.

The MCE also notes that certain aspects of the Stage 3 Review were considered as part of the Prime Minister's Task Group on Energy Efficiency which recently released its report. The MCE recognises that the Australian Government is considering its response to the Task Group recommendations in the context of other programs in the area of clean energy and the Government's work towards the introduction of a carbon price. The MCE expects the AEMC to take into account any relevant Australian Government responses to the Prime Minister's Task Group when available.

Establishing a Demand-Side Participation Reference Group

In tasking the AEMC to undertake this review, the MCE notes the importance of engaging with the electricity sector, including electricity users, and drawing upon relevant technical expertise.

In this regard, the AEMC is to establish a Reference Group that includes representatives from:

- the Australian Energy Market Operator;
- the Australian Energy Regulator;
- industry groups and representatives from electricity networks, electricity generators, electricity retailers and energy service companies;
- electricity user representatives; and
- relevant Commonwealth and jurisdictional departments.

Timing and process

The MCE requires that the AEMC:

- undertake a formal stakeholder consultation process, including the release of at least one interim report which seeks to consult on its interim conclusions and recommendations;
- if considered appropriate by the AEMC, hold a public forum; and
- provide a final report, setting out its policy conclusions and recommendations to the MCE by mid 2012.

The AEMC must publish a copy of the final report on its website no later than two weeks after providing it to the MCE.

Further details on the above matter are available on the AEMC's website www.aemc.gov.au. All documents in relation to the above matter are published on the AEMC's website and are available for inspection at the offices of the AEMC.

NATURAL RESOURCES MANAGEMENT ACT 2004

Revocation of Notice of Authorisation to Take Water

PURSUANT to Section 128 (5) of the Natural Resources Management Act 2004 (the Act), I, Paul Caica, Minister for Environment and Conservation in the State of South Australia and Minister to whom the administration of the Act is committed, revoke the Notice of Authorisation to Take Water dated 21 February 2011 and published in the Government Gazette (page 564) on 28 February 2011.

Dated 9 April 2011.

PAUL CAICA, Minister for Environment and Conservation

NATURAL RESOURCES MANAGEMENT ACT 2004

Notice of Authorisation to Take Water

PURSUANT to Section 128 of the Natural Resources Management Act 2004, I, Paul Caica, Minister for Environment and Conservation, hereby authorise the taking of roof run-off (surface water) from all Surface Water Prescribed Areas within the State of South Australia for the purposes of commercial (but not irrigation) use and industrial, environmental or recreational use, subject to the conditions specified in Schedule A.

SCHEDULE A

1. Surface water taken pursuant to this authorisation may only be used for one or more of the purposes described above and no other purpose, unless otherwise authorised.
2. Surface water taken pursuant to this authorisation can only be collected where the volume of water deemed to be collected from the connected roof area is equal to or less than 500 kilolitres per annum.
3. The volume deemed to be collected from the connected roof area is determined as follows:

$$\begin{array}{l} \text{Potential Estimated Average Annual} \\ \text{Capture} \\ \text{Amount (kilolitres)} \end{array} = \frac{\text{roof area (in square metres)}}{\text{metres}} \times \frac{\text{average annual rainfall for the relevant location (in millimetres)}}{1\,000}$$

on the basis that 1 mm of rain per square metre of roof yields 1 litre of water and using the relevant map of those appended as Attachments 1-7 to determine the average annual rainfall.

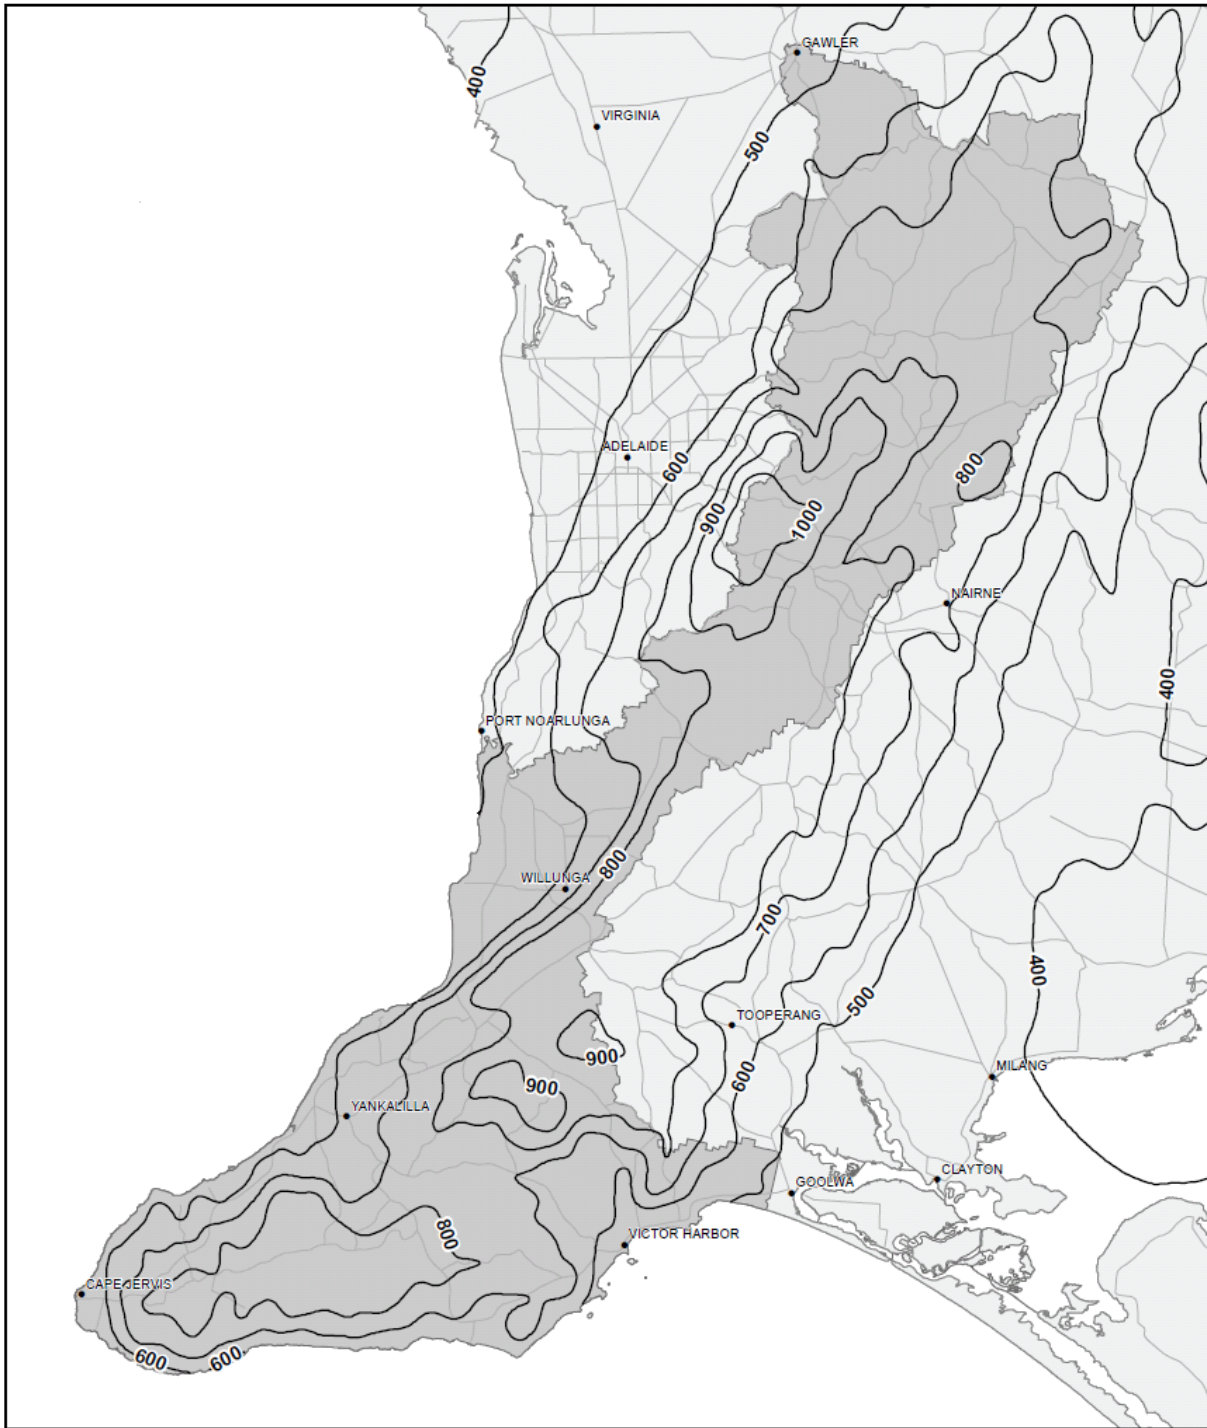

4. All water taken pursuant to this authorisation must be directed to closed water storage facilities (holding tanks).
5. Any water collected pursuant to this authorisation that overflows from a holding tank(s) must be released into the environment through the existing surface water drainage arrangements and must not be recaptured or redirected, unless otherwise authorised.
6. This authorisation will not apply where the Minister determines that the collection of rainwater from a particular roof by a person in a particular Surface Water Prescribed Area has or will have a detrimental effect on the ability of the holders of water licences in the same Surface Water Prescribed Area to exercise their rights in respect of the allocations endorsed on their licences and the Minister notifies the person in writing of that determination.

This authorisation will commence on the date below and will remain in effect for a period of five years unless earlier varied or revoked.

Dated 9 April 2011.

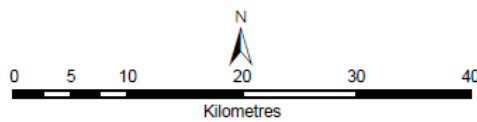

PAUL CAICA, Minister for Environment and Conservation
