Definitions:

Inland Waters means all fresh waters of the State, including lakes, ponds, rivers, streams and marshes, but not including privately owned waters.

Macerator means a purpose-built device that reduces the sewage to a fine slurry. Maceration will assist in achieving a discharge that does not produce visible floating solids or cause prolonged discoloration of the receiving waters.

Person in the water includes but is not limited to, swimmers, surfers, water-skiers, kayakers or canoeists, divers or snorkelers.

Privately owned waters means surface waters confined within the boundaries of privately owned land, and that do not flow into, or communicate with the sea, any arm or creek of the sea, or any lake, pond, river, stream or marsh that is beyond the boundaries of that private land.

Sewage means human faecal solid wastes and associated flushing water whether or not mixed with urine or any other wastewater.

Unless otherwise stated, "sewage" includes untreated sewage and disinfected sewage.

Disinfected sewage means sewage subjected to an on-board disinfection system to at least the following standard –

Bacterial standard

- Enterococci of 40 cells or less per 100mL

1. NOTE: -

- Disinfection systems that are formaldehyde-based must not be used; and
- Maceration alone cannot achieve the required standard. Macerated sewage is therefore not disinfected sewage for the purpose of the Directive.
