EXEMPTION

Application No. 98 of 1998

The Victorian and Civil Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by La Trobe Shire. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ carers of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander background for the Koorie Integrated Home Care Service.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 42, 100 & 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ carers of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander background for the Koorie Integrated Home Care Service.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:-

- The Koorie Integrated Home Care Service is funded by the Department of Human Services under the Home and Community Care ("HACC") Program and recognises a Koorie community as a special needs group.
- The La Trobe Shire ("the Shire") have a thriving local Aboriginal community who are reluctant to allow non Koorie people coming into their homes and instilling different cultural beliefs that they are not accustomed to.
- The Koorie Integrated Home Care Service is provided by Koorie staff, for Koorie people and is managed by the Shire. The Shire employs a Koorie Liaison Officer to oversee the directions of the program in keeping with culturally acceptable requirements, issues and needs of the Koorie community.

- Under the HACC program, the Council intends to employ Koorie Home Carers who will be working with Koorie people in the following categories:- older people, people with disabilities, their carers and families assessed in need of support. The tasks of the carer will also include duties such as shopping for or with clients, paying bills, and transporting clients to appointments.
- It is most important to have trust between the worker and the client. The local Koorie community is presently apprehensive about using home care because it is seen as unacceptable that a non-Koorie person enters their homes for the purpose of general home and personal care. It is essential that the home carer have a full understanding of local Koorie culture.
- The Commonwealth Government released the Human Rights and Equal Opportunity Commission report entitled "Bringing Them Home" in May 1997. The report is based on the findings of the Commission's National Inquiry into the separation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children from their families.
- The two positions, Trainee Archivists will be responsible for researching and identifying records and dealing with inquiries from the general public with the key focus of the work being Aboriginal culture. The incumbents will be required to develop effective relationships with Koorie communities in Victoria, providing to that community information and access to records.
- The roles were created as part of the Victorian Government's response to the release of the "Bringing Them Home" report and states "the Public Record Office of Victoria (PROV) and the Koorie Heritage Trust have an in principle agreement for the PROV to train a Koorie archivist to support initiatives to make the Koorie Heritage Trust a place of research for the Governments Koorie records". (17 November 1997, page 26).
- An Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander would be more suitable for these positions because in the report it was noted that "the Commonwealth and each State and Territory Government institute traineeships and scholarships for the training of Indigenous archivists, genealogists, historical researchers and counsellors, (recommendation 28).
- The trainee archivists are fully supported and funded by Aboriginal Affairs Victoria.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 42, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ carers of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander background for the Koorie Integrated Home Care Service. This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 30 September 2001.

Application No. 99 of 1998

The Victorian and Civil Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by the Public Record Office Victoria. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ 2 Aboriginal or Torres Strait Island persons.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 & 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ 2 Aboriginal or Torres Strait Island persons.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:-

EXEMPTION

Application No. 100 of 1998

The Victorian and Civil Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by International Women's Development Agency. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to employ females in all positions within its organisation.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 & 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to employ females in all positions within its organisation.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- International Women's Development Agency ("IWDA") is an international agency working for the elimination of poverty and empowerment of women around the world.
- IWDA is a voluntary organisation which undertakes development in partnership with women of other countries and Aboriginal and migrant women in Australia, and gives priority to working with women who suffer poverty and depression.
- IWDA assists women internationally to develop skills and to gain direct access to resources and promotes projects and programs which demonstrate women's competence and effectiveness as agents of development in agriculture, marketing, manufacturing, health, education, water supply and housing and other fields.
- It is important that female field workers being employed in the agency's international development projects because of the cultural sensitivities in relation to the women in the countries where those projects are undertaken and to encourage women in those countries to communicate freely with the field workers.
- It is important to make local positions with the agency available to women only to encourage the self development of Australian women and to provide them with additional career paths.
- A previous exemption was granted by the Equal Opportunity Board which expired on 3 August 1998.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to employ females in all positions within its organisation. This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 30 September 2001.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 101 of 1998

The Victorian and Civil Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Victorian Aboriginal Legal Service Co-op Ltd. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ females of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander ("ATSI") descent in the position of Project Co-ordinator, Indigenous Women and Family Services Improvement Strategy.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 & 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ females of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander ("ATSI") descent in the position of Project Co-ordinator, Indigenous Women and Family Services Improvement Strategy.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The position of Co-ordinator has been created to facilitate improved participation of Indigenous women in the planning, development and delivery of Legal Aid and Legal Aid related assistance to Victorian ATSI women, their families and communities.
- The Co-ordinator will be central to the success of the program and must be able to recognise and respect ATSI traditional and contemporary culture, and relate to and understand the significance of "women's business" (matters that, by ATSI custom and tradition, cannot be communicated to men.) The position requires an in-depth understanding and association with the problems faced by Aboriginal women who must be accepted by Aboriginal women and their communities. ATSI women are vulnerable, with some 48% having reported that they identify family violence as a common problem. Domestic and family violence support and treatment services for Indigenous women are sometimes inadequate or are not in all circumstances culturally acceptable.

- ATSI women are not adequately represented in the planning and delivery of legal aid and this project has been established to research this area and develop strategies to improve ATSI women's access to programs and services available from the Victorian Aboriginal Legal Service and other agencies within the sector.
- The Co-ordinator will need the ability to interpret the needs of ATSI women and develop strategies for improving co-ordination and corroboration across agencies. The Co-ordinator will be better able to anticipate the needs of the target group if she has some personal experience of the ATSI female community.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ females of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander ("ATSI") descent in the position of Project Co-ordinator, Indigenous Women and Family Services Improvement Strategy. This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 30 September 2001.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 102 of 1998

The Victorian and Civil Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Knox Park Primary School. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male integration aid.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 & 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male integration aid.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- A student will be transferring to Knox Park Primary School. In the student's best interests a male integration aid would be more appropriate for the development of the student as the student would relate better to a male.
- The student has been diagnosed as having behavioural disorders and takes medication for these disorders.
- The student has had a history of suspensions at other primary schools for behaving in a physically and verbally aggressive way.
- Previous integration aids have been female and have not been able to control the student.
- In the best interest of the student, a male integration aid would give the student the best possible chance to obtain an education.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male integration aid. This exemption is for a period of 3 years and is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 30 September 2001.

STYLE REQUIREMENTS.

To ensure that material received can be reproduced, and that errors are minimised, the following guidelines are to be observed when submitting material by fax.

Fax resolution:

Material sent by fax should be transmitted using Fine Resolution (200 dots per inch by 200 dpi).

Font size:

Use 12 point (10 pitch) or larger.

Font Style:

Clear plain font styles, such as Helvetica, should be used.

Graphics:

Line drawings should be transmitted as large as possible to ensure clarity. Drawings up to A4 size sent by fax using Fine Resolution provide a good quality for reproduction.

Avoid:

Italics, underlining and full justification.

Ensure document is square when sending as documents that are sent skewed are difficult to read and process.
