EXEMPTION

Application No. 107 of 1998

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") by Fiona J. Phillips. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to operate a massage service for women only.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 42, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to operate a massage service for women only.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The practice will provide services in relation to issues concerning women's health such as - massage during and after pregnancy, pre-menstrual syndrome/stress, menopause and tension-related post natal depression;
- It will provide female clients with massage from female therapists in a non-threatening environment.
- The applicant proposes to operate the business from her home and regards the need to protect her personal safety in this environment as a significant consideration, although it is not as important as the other factors mentioned above.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 42, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to operate a massage service for women only.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 28 October 2001.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 108 of 1998

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") by The University of Melbourne (the University). The application for exemption is to enable the University to advertise and appoint an Indigenous Australian to a position of Professor and Co-ordinator of Australian Indigenous Studies.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise and appoint an Indigenous Australian to a position of Professor and Co-ordinator of Australian Indigenous Studies.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant proposes to establish and promote indigenous studies and awareness of aspects of indigenous culture throughout programs in the University.
- The University has established a new Centre for Indigenous Education.
- The University wishes to create a position of Professor and Co-ordinator of Australian Indigenous Studies. The duties of that position include -
 - to stimulate teaching and research on issues related to indigenous peoples in an appropriate network or structure;
 - to conduct academic programs covering indigenous issues which are open to and attractive to both indigenous and non-indigenous students; and
 - to provide academic leadership and stimulus for these activities, and a role model for indigenous students.
- This position is intended to improve mechanisms for the education offered to indigenous people, to support indigenous students and to enhance the involvement of indigenous students in the life of the University.
- The holder of the position will need to be able to consult, collaborate and liaise with the indigenous community and be accepted by it and be able to foster an understanding between Indigenous and non-indigenous Australians.
- The holder will need to have expertise and knowledge in indigenous culture and in cross-cultural relations and an understanding of issues of concern to indigenous people.

- For all these reasons the duties of the position will be best carried out by an Australian Indigenous person.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the University to advertise and appoint an Indigenous Australian to a position of Professor and Co-ordinator of Australian Indigenous Studies.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 28 October 2001.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 87 of 1998

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") by Youth Projects Inc in respect of its Youth Futures project. The application for exemption is to enable Youth Futures to advertise for clients in the ages 15-39 years.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 42, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable Youth Futures to advertise for clients in the ages 15-39 years.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The State Government has recognised that there is a need to give assistance to unemployed people between the ages 15-39 years in the North West and Loddon Mallee regions because of the high concentration of unemployed people in that age range in those areas.
- The State Government has funded Youth Futures to provide assistance only to unemployed people in that age range and in those areas.
- Youth Futures is an employment service providing pre-employment services, placement and post placement support to unemployed persons who have been unemployed for 3-12 months.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 42, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable Youth Futures to advertise for clients in the ages 15-39 years.

Application No. 70 of 1998

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") by Win Support Services Inc. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to employ males or females as required so that the applicant can cater for the needs of clients who require a carer of a particular gender.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to employ males or females as required so that the applicant can cater for the needs of clients who require a carer of a particular gender.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- Win Support Services Inc is a non-profit organisation which provides personal, respite and recreational care to people with disabilities and their carers.
- The duties of the direct support staff are to provide assistance with personal care, assisting with housework and other areas of daily living, assistance with independent living such as budgeting or travel on public transport, providing medical care where appropriate, maintaining accurate records of support provided, assisting with recreational activities and community access and assistance with making or attending appointments.
- The direct support staff also assist the consumer to build on their skills and become more independent by involving consumers in decisions making regarding their lives, encouraging consumers to act independently and to set achievable goals, supporting consumers to become more positively involved in their local community, and participating in the development and implementation of individual programs for each consumer as required.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to employ males or females as required so that the applicant can cater for the needs of clients who require a carer of a particular gender.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 28 October 2001.

Subordinate Legislation Act 1994

REGULATORY IMPACT STATEMENT

Road Safety (Drivers) Regulations 1998

Notice is given in accordance with section 11 of the Subordinate Legislation Act 1994, that a Regulatory Impact Statement (RIS) has been prepared in relation to the Road Safety (Drivers) Regulations 1998.

All regulations cease to operate 10 years after they are made. This process is called "sunsetting". The proposed Road Safety (Drivers) Regulations re-make parts of the sunsetting Road Safety (Procedures) Regulations 1988 that concern driver licensing and driving hours.

The RIS includes the novice driver provisions of the sunsetting regulations and the fees associated with driver licensing activities. The remaining parts of the regulations are part of a national scheme and exempt from the RIS process.

The objective of the novice driver regulations is to reduce the incidence of accidents to these drivers by maintaining a system of special learner permit and probationary licence provisions to take account of their holder's youth and/or inexperience.

The regulations taken together form a package of measures designed to promote road safety for young or inexperienced drivers. It was not possible to calculate the individual quantitative benefits of each proposed regulation because they are designed to complement and interact with one another.

The regulations contain a number of restrictions on mobility and independent travel. These restrictions involve economic and social costs to the extent that they limit opportunities for employment, education and social activities. There are also a number of compliance costs associated with specific regulations.

It is estimated that the total benefits of the regulations are likely to exceed $36 million per annum. This represents a ratio of benefits to costs of 3.3:1.

The regulations have been in place for 10 years. While it is possible that a more successful alternative regulatory regime may be introduced in future, there are no proposals developed at this time.

Alternatives to the regulations such as increasing resources for enforcement, education, training and publicity were assessed and it was concluded that the proposed regulations are a more cost efficient and effective means of meeting the objectives than the alternatives.

The objective of the fees regulations is to ensure the most efficient allocation of resources in the charging of fees as provided for under the Road Safety Act 1986. No increase in existing fees is proposed.

Public comments are invited on the RIS and accompanying Regulations. Copies may be obtained from VicRoads' Bookshop, Telephone (03) 9854 2782 or by e-mail to Bookshop@vrnotes.roads.vic.gov.au. Written submissions will be received at the following address up to 5.00 p.m. on 26 November 1998: The Manager, Business Strategies (Driver Licensing), VicRoads, 60 Denmark Street, Kew, Vic. 3101 or by e-mail to Torpeys@vrnotes.roads.vic.gov.au.
