MONASH CITY COUNCIL

New Local Law

Local Law No 3 (Amendment) Local Law

Notice is given that the City of Monash at its meeting on 4 November 1998 resolved to make 'Local Law No 3 (Amendment) Local Law 1998'. The local law came into operation on the 5 November 1998.

Purpose of the local law

The purpose of the local law is to amend existing Local Law No 3 to remove restrictions on competition identified in a legislation review conducted in accordance with clause 5 of the Competition Principles Agreement and to specify parking offences to apply in the municipal district for which parking infringement notices may be served under the Road Safety Act 1986.

The general purport of the new local law

The new local law amends the existing City of Monash Local Law No. 3 by removing some local law controls, restructuring several provisions (some of which are offence provisions) and creating new offences relating to the parking of vehicles as follows:

- the requirement for a Council permit for the sale of alcohol in a "municipal place" is removed;
- a provision in clause 13 prohibiting the posting of advertisements in reserves is removed as it duplicates an earlier provision;
- some activities which are able to be undertaken in a reserve with a permit are transferred from clause 13 to clause 14;
- there is an exemption from the permit requirement for a circus or carnival held on Council land where there is compliance with the "Good Neighbour Code of Practice for Circuses and Carnivals, April 1997";
- controls on noisy building works conducted in residential areas are brought into conformity with EPA standards;
- the requirement for a Local Law permit to place outdoor furniture on roads and Council land is removed (although controls under the planning scheme remain);
- the requirement for a Local Law permit for the sale of goods on private land and door-to-door selling and collecting is removed;

- requirements regarding the use and placement of garbage bins are limited to collections conducted by Council;
- offence provisions, similar to those in the Road Safety (Traffic) Regulations 1988 and relating to the parking of vehicles, are inserted. The provisions enable Council to set parking infringement penalties in accordance with section 87(4) of the Road Safety Act 1986.

A copy of the new local law is available at the Civic Centre 293 Springvale Road, Glen Waverley between the hours of 8.15 am and 5 pm Monday to Friday.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 105 of 1998

The Anti-Discrimination List of the Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act) by Ms Frances Ford on behalf of St Luke's Family Care. The exemption would enable the applicant to advertise for either male or female community support workers, as specified.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of the application, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 & 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for specified male or female community support workers.

The Tribunal accordingly grants an exemption from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for either male or female community support workers, as specified.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal notes that:

- St Luke's Family Care is a provider of psychiatric disability support services in North-Central Victoria;
- these services offer home-based outreach support, a centre-based services of a psychologist as well as social rehabilitation programs and housing support;
- staff teams are small multi-skilled groups of 3 or 4 support workers who share a range of tasks;
- services are provided to a high number of women who have experienced sexual abuse and consequently have a strong preference for the assistance from a female support worker;
- male consumers of services have expressed a need to work with male support workers, who can assist them in dealing with a wide range of men's health issues and provide them with a model for healthy relationships and interactions;
- the applicant attempts to offer consumers of services a choice between a female or a male key worker wherever possible; and that
- the applicant wishes to be able to redress uneven gender balance in the provision of services wherever this occurs.

The exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 11 November 2001.

Dated this 4 November 1998.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 113 of 1998

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by NSW Department of Community Services. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a female Aboriginal to be employed as a District Officer based at Deniliquin.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a female Aboriginal to be employed as a District Officer based at Deniliquin.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The Department is working on issues brought about by the "Stolen Generation" report and finds it imperative to have an Aboriginal worker in this role to continue to assist in the building of trust in supporting the Aboriginal community so that it can deal with care and protection matters in a culturally acceptable way.
- The position services the Aboriginal community at Cumeragunja. The community are Yorta Yorta people working towards self determination.
- In order to further develop the relationship between the department, the elders and people of the Cumeragunja community, and to support the Department's role to enable it to respond in a more culturally acceptable manner to matters of child sexual assault, neglect and abuse, a female Aboriginal worker is required to address these sensitive issues.
- A female worker will be able to link more closely with mothers and grandmothers regarding issues of domestic violence.

- In the past the appointees have been Aboriginal males who have not been able to effectively respond to these issues within the community, as it is not culturally accepted for a male to discuss these issues with the female community members.
- The community serviced by the officer is located on both sides of the New South Wales and Victorian border.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a female Aboriginal to be employed as a District Officer based at Deniliquin.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 11 November 2001.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 112 of 1998

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by The Windana Society Inc. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male and female worker where appropriate, to maintain a gender balance.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male and female worker where appropriate, to maintain a gender balance.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The Windana Society Incorporated is a non-profit organisation, managed by an elected Board of Management. Windana has been a key service provider in Victoria providing effective generic and specialist alcohol and drug community health and support services since 1984.

- Windana has a fully Operational Therapeutic community, Residential Withdrawal service and Community Integration and support program. Currently the organisation receives funding from the nine regions of the Department of Human Services. The Society employs 45 permanent staff with qualifications and experience in areas such as housing, welfare, psychology, naturopathy, family therapy, childcare and administration.
- The Windana Society has 4 year funding via 'The National Illicit Drug Strategy' to develop and implement a Parenting Skills Program. This education and support program, specifically targeted to parents with a history of problematic drug/alcohol use, is funded at 20 hours per week. The Society intends to employ a female for 8 hours and a male for 12 hours per week.
- The combination of a male/female project team was proposed and accepted in the Society's submission to the Federal Government. The male/female project team would be likely to increase ease of access for potential clients given the sensitive nature of the work and provide them with a choice of group facilitator on a gender basis. At the pilot stage of this project, 70% of the pilot project group were fathers. It is anticipated that, in the main project group at least one third of the participants will be male.
- Gender issues are particularly pertinent in the area of parenting, and therefore a combined approach is more likely to meet client needs.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male and female worker where appropriate, to maintain a gender balance.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 11 November 2001.

REVOCATION OF A CODE OF PRACTICE

Under section 7 of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act 1986, I, Bill McGrath, Acting Minister for Agriculture & Resources revoke the attached Code of Practice for the Management of Companion Animals in Shelters and Pounds approved by the Governor in Council on 20 March 1990 and published in Government Gazette No. G25 (pages 1936-1944) on 27 June 1990.

BILL McGRATH

Acting Minister for Agriculture & Resources

CODE OF PRACTICE FOR THE MANAGEMENT OF COMPANION ANIMALS IN SHELTERS AND POUNDS.

Introduction

This Code has been prepared from a consideration of the welfare of companion animals housed in shelters and pounds. Its purpose is to provide general guidelines on the minimum standards of accommodation, management and care which are appropriate to the physical and behavioural needs of these animals, and should be observed by people who operate or who work in shelters or pounds for companion animals.

The Code is designed to cover all animal welfare shelters and pounds. The criteria for small rural pounds differ from large pounds and shelters as an increase in the volume of animals increases disease risk, and animal welfare and management problems. A small pound is defined as having a throughput of less than 50 dogs or cats per year.

In addition, this Code is aimed at increasing public confidence in shelters and pounds and promoting responsible pet ownership.

This Code does not apply to wildlife shelters operated by persons holding a permit under Section 6 of the Wildlife Act 1975 to establish a shelter for the rehabilitation of native wildlife.

General

1. Staff

1.1 Manager

The manager of an animal shelter or pound, responsible for the overall management and conduct of the establishment, would be responsible in particular for:

- the well-being of the animals in the establishment;
- supervision of staff;
- maintenance and collation of daily records and statistics;
- supervision of daily feeding, watering and inspection of all animals;

- supervision of examination of animals within 24 hours of admittance;
- obtaining prompt veterinary attention for animals when required;
- the overall level of hygiene at the shelter or pound, including the disposal of cadavers and waste materials;
- ensuring the transport vehicle conforms with the minimum standards as prescribed in this Code.

1.2 The veterinarian

Every animal shelter and pound should have an arrangement with sufficient veterinarians to be on call and responsible for the health and treatment of the animals, and in particular for the following tasks:

- advice on housing and hygiene procedures;
- examination of animals to assess suitability for re-housing;
- recognition of infectious and zoonotic diseases;
- first-aid and other animal treatments;
- control of disease including vaccination procedures;
- humane euthanasia where an overdose of barbiturates is used.

1.3 Animal attendants

Animal shelters and pounds should employ trained or experienced personnel for the capture, handling and management of animals.

Animal attendants should be responsible for the following tasks:

- daily feeding, watering and inspection of all animals;
- reporting of sick animals and those with behavioural problems to either the manager or the veterinarian;
- capture of stray animals when necessary.

It is recommended that one full-time animal attendant be employed per 50 animals housed.

1.4 The vehicle driver

The driver of an animal shelter or pound vehicle should be an experienced or trained animal attendant, responsible for the following tasks:

- the care and welfare of all animals during transport, except where a veterinarian also travels with the consignment;
- the hygiene and cleanliness of the vehicle.

1.5 Staff health

In order to provide for the health protection of the animal handlers in shelters and pounds, the following safeguards should apply:

- adequate handwashing facilities be available;
- tetanus immunisation be advised;
- some hazards exist with certain species of animals which are known to harbour disease-causing organisms which can be transmitted to man (zoonoses). While zoonotic diseases are not usually found in pound animals, personal hygiene procedures should be such that transmission could not occur.

All personnel working with cats, especially women of child-bearing potential, should be made aware of the risk of contracting toxoplasmosis.

2. Handling and treatment of animals

2.1 Capture

Capture methods should be as humane as possible with minimum risk to operators, bystanders and animals. The behaviour of the species concerned should be taken into account when deciding on the methods used. Capture (tranquilliser) guns should not be used.

2.2 Transport

Animals should be transported for the minimum time practicable.

Cats and very small dogs may be placed in secure carrying baskets, cages or boxes, large dogs may be restrained but all animals should be physically separated.

Where the pick-up of stray or injured animals is conducted on a shuttle basis the timetable should be based on ensuring minimum time in transit for distressed or injured animals.

Badly injured animals should be euthanased or transported to the nearest point of veterinary attention as soon as possible.

The driver is responsible for the welfare of animals in the vehicle during transportation.

2.3 Handling and treatment

2.3.1 Admission

Three types of animal are likely to be admitted to a shelter or pound:

- a. Stray animals - where the animal is not identified and the owner is unknown;

- b. Owned animals - where the owner presents the animal for rehousing or euthanasia;
- c. Feral or semi-wild animals - unlikely ever to have been owned.

Every animal admitted to a shelter or pound should be examined by a veterinarian, or by an experienced attendant, who should be responsible for classifying animals into the following categories for attention:

- a. Healthy animals - to be held in quarantine pens;
- b. Moderately or slightly injured animals - to be given prompt first-aid to relieve pain and preserve life, and held for observation;
- c. Severely injured animals, animals with infectious disease, unweaned animals or wild or vicious animals - to be promptly and humanely euthanased.

2.3.2 Vaccination

Animals selected for rehousing should be vaccinated to cover the following diseases:

Dogs: canine distemper

infectious canine hepatitis

canine parvovirus

Cats: infectious feline enteritis feline respiratory disease (cat flu).

2.3.3. Quarantine

All vaccinated animals are required to be held in quarantine for certain periods of time before being made available for rehousing (unless previously reclaimed by their owners). Recommended quarantine periods are:

- a. Dogs - Strays and dogs not previously vaccinated
- 8 days.

Nil if previously vaccinated, presented with current vaccination certificate and free from infectious disease.

- b. Cats - Strays and cats not previously vaccinated;

- 5 days for adults.

Nil if previously vaccinated, presented with a vaccination certificate and free from infectious disease.

Kittens under 12 weeks - 5 days.

Animals under treatment during quarantine should be held in individual pens or cages separated from healthy animals.

At the end of the appropriate quarantine period, all animals should again be examined by the manager or a veterinarian to assess their suitability for rehousing.

2.3.4 Isolation

All animals confined in isolation areas should be examined at least daily by a veterinarian.

Animals kept in isolation should either be moved to the quarantine area if their condition has improved, or be humanely euthanased if there is no sign of rapid improvement.

2.3.5 Euthanasia

Animals may be euthanased because of disease, injury, temperament, age, unsuitability for rehousing or in accordance with the Dog Act 1970.

The preferred method of euthanasia is intravenous barbiturate overdosage, which must be carried out by a veterinarian.

Very wild or aggressive animals may require euthanasia by gunshot.

Euthanasia should be performed in an area that is separated from animal accommodation at the shelter or pound and should not be carried out in view of any other animals.

2.3.6 Maintenance procedures

a. Feeding

All animals should be fed at least once per day. Dry feed is recommended for dogs.

Fresh cool water should be available to animals at all times.

Young puppies and kittens should be fed a minimum of twice daily with a recognised balanced diet. Their food may include milk and eggs as well as commercial tinned food. Dry food should only be fed to pups as a supplement.

Appendix 1 lists Recommended Daily Intakes for dogs and cats.

b. Disinfection and hygiene

An animal shelter or pound should be kept clean and hygienic at all times. All pens should be cleaned out twice per day and cats and kittens should be provided with clean sanitary trays daily.

Disinfection of pens and cages should be done whenever the occupant is changed or every fifth day with hospital grade disinfectants.

It is important that all surfaces and utensils should be thoroughly rinsed after disinfecting to avoid poisoning.

Phenol is injurious to cats and should not be used.

c. Inspection

Animal attendants should inspect every animal daily, noting its general appearance and behaviour.

It is the responsibility of animal attendants at animal shelters and pounds to report any animal that appears sick or injured, or is behaving oddly, to the manager or veterinarian as soon as possible. Animals suspected of having an infectious disease should be placed in isolation or euthanased.

2.3.7 Rehousing (sale of animals)

All adult animals sold should be desexed and immature animals should be sold with a prepaid desexing voucher.

Sick, aggressive, pregnant, unweaned, anti-social or deformed animals, or animals with vices such as excessive barking, fence jumping (dogs) should not be made available for rehousing.

New owners should be supplied with a vaccination certificate and be given literature about feeding, housing and responsible pet ownership. They should also be encouraged to seek advice about problems with the pets from veterinarians or people with experience in animal care and management.

If an animal is not acceptable for any reason to a new owner within fourteen days, pounds or shelters should be prepared to take the animal back into the shelters and refund all monies or offer a replacement animal with the same guarantee. Animals should not be desexed before sale and all adult animals should be desexed.

The maximum time that animals suitable for rehousing should be held at the shelter is four weeks.

2.3.8 Public access to animal shelters and pounds

A minimum of 20 hours per week public access to pounds and shelters should be provided at specific periods during working hours and including reasonable times after hours or at weekends. Public access at small pounds may be by appointment with the Ranger.

2.3.9 Release of animals to research institutions

Pound animals may only be released to research organisations under the provisions of the Code of practice for the use of animals from municipal pounds in scientific procedures.

3. Responsible pet ownership

3.1 Animal shelters and pounds should assist in promoting responsible pet ownership in the community by the following methods:

- a. Rehousing of pets which have vaccination certificates, and which are either desexed or have prepaid desexing vouchers.
- b. Providing new pet owners with advice on pet care and information leaflets about veterinary attention that is required for animals after purchase (such as follow-up vaccination), and current legislation covering the registration of pet animals.
- c. Advising Council of the municipality where animals will be kept when animals are sold and the address of new owners.
- d. Writing to owners emphasising the importance of desexing where desexing vouchers for pups and kittens have not been redeemed after three months.
- e. Providing prospective buyers with advice on the most suitable type of dog for their environment (consider yard size, exercise requirements, children etc.)

4. Buildings and facilities

4.1 Animal transport vehicles

Vehicles used for the transport of animals should have the following features:

- provision for animals to be physically separated and restrained;
- no protrusions or sharp edges in the framework, doors, partitions, etc;
- a design that is both escape-proof and prevents the protrusion of head and/or limbs of any animal carried;
- floors which are strong enough to bear the weight of the animals being transported, and have a non-slip surface to minimise the likelihood of injury;
- weatherproof with adequate ventilation of vehicles both when stationary and in motion;

- facilities for unloading animals with minimal risk of injury to the animals;
- materials and a design that allow for effective cleaning and disinfection.

4.2 Food storage and hygiene

Facilities for the storage and preparation of food should be separate from any animal accommodation. Feed storage facilities in establishments should be vermin proof and available to hold a minimum of five days requirements under peak conditions.

Feeding and drinking utensils should be stable and either disposable or able to be readily cleaned and disinfected.

For dogs and weaned puppies, one feeding bowl should be provided per individual animal. For cats, there should be one feeding bowl per adult and one feeding bowl per three kittens (less than 12 weeks).

Facilities should be provided for the vermin-proof storage and sanitary disposal of animal wastes, cadavers, food scraps and refuse. A regular pick-up of such wastes at least twice per week is required.

4.3 Housing facilities

This section contains general requirements for all pounds and shelters and additional requirements specific to the pound or shelter being large (more than 50 dogs per year) or small (less than 50 dogs per year).

Three types of housing facilities may be found at animal shelters or pounds:

a. Isolation pens for unhealthy animals. Isolation facilities should be physically separated from other animal accommodation at the shelter or pound.

Small pounds using the facilities of a veterinary practitioner to treat injured or unhealthy animals will not require isolation pens.

b. Quarantine pens - for the housing of animals during the required period following introduction to the pound or shelter or for the quarantine period that follows vaccination. All pounds and shelters will have quarantine pens.

c. Sale pens - for healthy animals selected for rehousing. These pens will only be found in shelters or pounds that offer animals for rehousing.

Floors should be sealed and free of cracks. All pens should be able to be secured to prevent accidental escape of animals and should be completely enclosed, having either a solid or wire roof.

Outside pens and runs should be designed to take account of the local environmental factors so the animals are protected from extremes of climate and weather. For instance, by the provision of wind breaks, trees for shade or cold water sprayed onto the pens in hot weather. Where pens are constructed outdoors, a cyclone wire fence with a lockable gate should encircle each section. Sleeping quarters should be weatherproof.

Very young animals will require sleeping quarters where the temperature is between 20-25°C. Clean soft bedding should be provided daily.

Housing facilities for dogs and cats should be physically separated and should have appropriate fire extinguishers or other fire protection.

Recommended pen and cage sizes are as follows:

a. Dogs

All adult dogs should be housed one to a pen.

Minimum pen sizes for each adult dog older than four months

Height of Dog at Shoulder (Centimetres)	Minimum Area (Square Metres)	Minimum Width (Centimetres)	Minimum Height (Centimetres)
30 and above	2.5	100	150
Below 30	1.5	90	150

Note: One third of the area of each pen should be weatherproof and include raised sleeping quarters.

The number of dogs which can be held per pen size are shown in the following table:

Age	Maximum number per pen
Adult (greater than 16 weeks)	1
Weaned pups from same litter (6-16 weeks)	4

Where pens are contained within an enclosed building, their size may be reduced provided that the rest of the required area is incorporated as an external individual exercise area, and the dogs have a minimum access of 8 hours/day to this area.

b. Cats

Cats should be housed individually in cages or pens during the quarantine period.

Cages used to hold adult cats should be at least 70 cm wide, 70 cm deep and 50 cm high. This size cage can accommodate up to three kittens (less than 12 weeks of age).

Cats should not be kept in cages for more than one week.

Quarantine pens should have a minimum area of 1.2 square metres with a minimum width of one metre, and have a raised sleeping area. Clean bedding should also be provided for each sleeping area.

After desexing, vaccination and quarantine, cats may be multiple housed in holding pens. Each cat should have a floor area of two square metres and an individual sleeping area.

c. Birds

Shelters and pounds receiving birds should provide cages meeting specifications described in the Code of Practice for the Housing of Cage Birds.

d. Farm animals

Shelters and pounds receiving farm animals should provide pens and yards meeting specifications described in Codes of Practice for domestic livestock.

4.3.1 Requirements for large pounds and shelters (More than 50 dogs admitted per year)

a. Pens

These pounds and shelters will have isolation pens, quarantine pens and possibly sale pens. Pens should conform to the general requirements specified under 'Housing facilities' and should be constructed of impervious, washable materials optimally curved at the wall/floor junction to facilitate cleaning and disinfection.

The line of drainage must not run from pen to pen. Individual drainage outlets should be incorporated in each pen and connected to a completely enclosed drain or pipe. Floors should be graded to the outlet. An impervious partition one metre high and sealed to the floor should separate all pens and exercise areas.

Preferably pens should not be built to face each other as this will increase the noise and spread of diseases between pens. Noise barriers should be used to minimise noise to acceptable levels. Where pens are built facing each other and the drainage line is toward the centre walkway, an impervious partition one metre high should be centrally installed in the walkway to reduce the possibility of the spread of disease into opposite pens during cleaning.

b. Examination, treatment and euthanasia facilities

A separate first-aid treatment area should be provided with a table which can be readily cleaned and disinfected, lighting and shelving, and first-aid materials including dressings, disinfectants and medicines to treat open wounds. Restricted drugs kept on the premises must be kept in a lockable cabinet, and should only be used by or at the specific direction of a veterinarian.

Hot and cold running water should be available.

Euthanasia should be carried out in an area separate from where animals are housed.

Note: Soundproof buildings containing pens or cages where forced ventilation is the only form of air supply should meet the following requirements:

- a. Ventilation - an air change rate of between 8-12 changes per hour to prevent the build-up of foul odours. Ventilation devices should avoid draughts and distribute fresh air evenly to all of the animal area.
- b. Temperature - should be constant and in the range of 18-21°C for adult animals.
- c. Air recirculation units, incorporating effective air cleaning and filtration to remove infectious organisms as well as chemicals such as ammonia.
- d. Back-up alarm systems in the event of power failure or breakdown of ventilation and temperature control mechanisms.

Housing animals in totally enclosed soundproofed rooms or buildings is expensive and costly to maintain and requires qualified staff.

4.3.2 Requirements for small pounds (fewer than 50 dogs admitted per year)

a. Pens

These pens should be constructed of impervious washable materials and conform to the general requirements specified under 'Housing facilities'. The line of drainage should not run from pen to pen.

Small pounds may use the facilities of a veterinarian for:

- isolation pens;
- examination, treatment and euthanasia.

If the facilities of a veterinarian are not used, the pound should conform with the requirements for isolation pens and facilities for examination, treatment and euthanasia as specified in the Code.

b. Public access may be by appointment with the Ranger or by the open times specified in 2.3.8 (public access to animal shelters and pounds).

Recommended daily intake for maintenance of normal adult dogs

Bodyweight of dog (kg)	Dry dog food	Canned dog food cups/dog (100g/cup)	cans/dog (450g/can)	cans/dog (700g/can)
3	.75	.50	-

25	3.75	2.50	1.25
30	4	2.75	1.75
40	5	3.50	2
50	6	4	2.50

This table applies to normal, adult, non-breeding, non-working house dogs.

Growth requirements:

- Weaning to 40% adult weight = 2 x maintenance
- 40-80% adult weight = 1.5 x maintenance
- 80-100% adult weight = 1.2 x maintenance

Recommended daily intake for maintenance of normal adult cats

Bodyweight of cat (kg)	Age Weeks	Canned cat food Cans/cat (425g / can)
0.5-1	10	0.35-0.6
1-2	20	0.3-0.6
1.5-3	30	0.35-0.7
2-4	40	0.4-0.75
3-5	Adult	0.5-0.8

This table applies to adult non-breeding house cats.

Corresponding figures for dry foods are not included as it is not usual for cats to be fed exclusively on these products. It is more usual for them to be given as part of the diet, either fed separately in small amounts, or mixed in with canned food, providing that adequate fresh water is always freely available. An average adult cat requires about 22g of dry food per kg bodyweight per day.

Growth requirements:

weaning to 40% adult weight	= 2 x maintenance
40-80% adult weight	= 1.5 x maintenance
8-100% adult weight	= 1.2 x maintenance

The Minister for Planning and Local Government has approved Amendment L57 to the Boroondara Planning Scheme.

The Amendment comes into operation on the date this notice is published in the Government Gazette.

The Amendment introduces interim demolition controls for the area known as the "Riverside Estate and Environs" in North Balwyn, thereby providing interim demolition controls whilst Amendment L56 to the Boroondara Planning Scheme goes through a normal public exhibition process. EXEMPTION

Application No. 110 of 1998

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Woorinyan Incorporated. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ male and female carers as required to maintain a gender balance.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ male and female carers as required to maintain a gender balance.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- Woorinyan Incorporated operates an Adult Training Support Service partly funded by the Department of Human Services. The Day centre supports and trains people with intellectual disabilities in programs including literacy, numeracy, community access and art and craft. These activities are conducted both on and off site.
- They operate with 12 female staff caring for 41 female and 19 male clients, most of whom require attendant care.

- The female staff have to attend the personal needs of male clients and this is great causing anxiety for the male clients and staff. In order to redress this gender imbalance of staff the applicant wishes to employ male and female carers as required to maintain that balance.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ male and female carers as required to maintain a gender balance.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 11 November 2001.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a Koorie educator to work as a Teacher Aide.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 11 November 2001.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 115 of 1998

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Gary Golding on behalf of Mooroopna Secondary College. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a Koorie educator to work as a Teacher Aide.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a Koorie educator to work as a Teacher Aide.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The position is funded by the Education Department in recognition of the large number of Koorie students enrolled at the school.
- The teacher aide works closely with the students and teachers in a classroom situation as well as having a pastoral care role for the students.
- A vital role of the teacher aide is to liaise with the families and the Koorie community. This involves home visits and the organisation
