The intention of the Council was to discontinue the land being part of the land known as Eastwood Street, Kensington shown on the plan hereunder.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 33 of 1998

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal constituted by the President pursuant to Section 182 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Act by the Southern Healthcare Network - Dandenong Hospital, in relation to the Ethics Committee of that hospital. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for a male and/or female candidate for membership on the Dandenong Hospital Ethics Committee ("the DHEC") to meet the requirements for membership in paragraph 1.1 of the DHEC's

Terms of Reference.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 34, 35, 37, 42, 59, 100 and 195 of the act to enable the applicant to advertise for a male and/or female candidate for membership on the Dandenong Hospital Ethics Committee ("DHEC") to meet the requirements for membership in paragraph 1.1 of the DHEC's Terms of Reference.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- Section 7 of the National Health and Medical Research Council Act 1992 ("the NHMRC Act") states:-

Functions of the Council

- (1) The functions of the council are:

- (a) to inquire into, issue guidelines on, and advise the community on matters relating to:
 - (iv) public health research and medical research; and
 - (v) ethical issues relating to health; and

- Section 8 of the NHMRC Act states:-
Ethics Guidelines

- (1) Without limiting any of the matters on which the Council may issue guidelines under subparagraph 7(1)(a)(v), the council must issue guidelines under that subparagraph for the conduct of medical research involving humans;
- (2) The guidelines for the conduct of medical research involving humans must be issued precisely as developed by the Principal Committee known as the Australian Health Ethics Committee and provided to the Council for the purpose.

- The Australian Health Ethics Committee is a body established by the Minister administering the NHMRC Act, and has a diverse range of members many of whom are required to be appointed after consultation with the relevant Ministers of States and Territories.

- Under the NHRMC Act the NHRMC has issued guidelines. One of those guidelines is called the NHRMC Statement on Human Experimentation and Supplementary Notes 1992. That guideline sets out principles for the conduct of experimentation on humans and for the Constitution of Institutional Ethics Committee to advise on, approve and monitor that experimentation - see Supplementary notes - Supplementary Note 1 (1992) - Institutional Ethics Committees, where Part 4 states the composition of the Committee must include "laywoman not associated with the institution; layman not associated with the institution . . ."
- The Terms of Reference of the applicant's Ethics Committee states that the Membership of that Committee shall consist of a nominee of the General Managers who shall be the Chairperson, a Network Medical Administrator, and representatives from the following: 2 persons from the Medical Staff Association, one with research experience, a Hospital Medical Officer, a Director of Nursing or delegate and two nursing staff, a representative from Allied Health and Department of Psychiatry, a qualified solicitor and a clergyman not associated with the hospital, and a male and female to represent an ethical/philosophical viewpoint.
- The functions of the committee are to act as an authority to research projects received at the Dandenong hospital and approve or disapprove Cross Network research proposals on behalf of other Network Ethics Committees; maintain a register and keep surveillance of all proposed research projects until their completion to conform with approved ethical standards; to act as an advisory group to General Managers on ethical issues; provide a resource to health professionals and others in the organisation; identify ethics related educational needs of staff and make recommendations to General Managers; act as a forum to increase ethics and health care understanding; review and make recommendations on issues of ethics and protocols related to research on patients or staff procedures and receive ethical issues referred to the Committee from recognised and established groups in the hospital, heads of Departments, or individual Committee members.

- The exemption is required so that the applicant can comply with the NHRMC guidelines.
- The functions that the applicant's Committee performs are important. It is a Multi-disciplinary Committee with representatives offering a diverse range of skills and experience. Given its functions, it is important that the Committee also includes representatives of men and women and the range of its membership conforms to the range of memberships of other similar committees in other States and Territories of the Commonwealth and in the Commonwealth itself.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 34, 35, 37, 42 59, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for a male and/or female candidate for membership on the Dandenong Hospital Ethics Committee ("DHEC") to meet the requirements for membership in paragraph 1.1 of the DHEC's Terms of Reference.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 27 May 2001.

LATE NOTICES

Subordinate Legislation Act 1994

REGULATORY IMPACT STATEMENT
Environment Protection (Prescribed Waste)
Regulations 1998

The current Environment Protection (Prescribed Waste) Regulations 1987 and the Environment Protection (Transport) Regulations 1987 expire in July 1998.

Draft Environment Protection (Prescribed Waste) Regulations 1998 have been prepared to replace these regulations. The objectives of the regulations are to define a list of prescribed wastes and to establish a regime for the management and transport of those wastes.

A regulatory impact statement has been prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Subordinate Legislation Act 1994.

The regulatory impact statement concludes that the proposed statutory rule provides the most effective mechanism for defining and managing waste and that the benefits of adopting the proposed statutory rule will outweigh the associated costs.

Public comments are sought on the draft regulations and regulatory impact statement by Friday 26 June 1998. The draft regulations and the regulatory impact statement can be obtained by contacting: EPA Information Centre, tel. (03) 9628 5622, fax. (03) 9628 5391.
