EXEMPTION
Application No. 40 of 1998

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal constituted by the President pursuant to Section 182 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Act by Swinburne University of Technology. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person to the position of Manager of Indigenous Programs.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person to the position of Manager of Indigenous Programs.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The University has entered a contractual arrangement with the Department of Employment Education & Youth Affairs (DEETYA) to recruit and train indigenous people for employment.

- The position of Manager of Indigenous Programs will be responsible for putting together a plan to promote the participation of Indigenous people in Swinburne programs, including the development of appropriate support strategies and program content, managing a budget and identifying other possible funding sources for Indigenous initiatives.
- One of the major focuses of the position is to develop appropriate mechanisms to enable the University to consult with the Indigenous Community in Victoria and beyond. The position requires a network of contacts within the indigenous community and a knowledge of community educational requirements; it is very difficult for non-Indigenous people to gain access to community members and to locate appropriate people.
- The development of cultural awareness programs and the support of Indigenous students require a high level of understanding of indigenous culture. This is possessed most deeply by those who have grown up in it and are accepted as part of the community.
- Indigenous students enquiring about courses at Swinburne make initial contact through Indigenous staff. If Indigenous staff assist those students they will be encouraged to participate in the higher education offered by Swinburne. An indigenous student may feel less able to communicate with non-indigenous staff and may be deterred from inquiring about programs available at Swinburne.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person to the position of Manager of Indigenous Programs.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 3 June 2001.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 43 of 1998

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal constituted by the President pursuant to Section 182 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Act by The Office of the Status for Women ("OSW") and Australian Council of Businesswomen ("ACOB"). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise, provide and arrange for the provision of training for women to enable them to become company directors.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 42 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise, provide and arrange for the provision of training for women to enable them to become company directors.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The project is funded by the ACOB in conjunction with OSW; the aim of the project is to promote the representation of suitably qualified women on private sector boards and in non-executive directorships.
- Women are underrepresented on private sector boards. Women comprise 6 per cent of company directors, 7.3 per cent of non executive directors and 1 per cent of executive directors.
- The project aims to promote the representation of suitably qualified women on private sector boards and in non-executive directorships, and provides participants with exposure to boardroom functions and appropriate training and mentoring opportunities and promotes consideration of women as appointees to future board positions.

- The applicants are inviting suitably qualified women to nominate for the project by completing a nomination form and supplying a curriculum vitae. KPMG Executive Search will conduct interviews against the selection criteria. References will be checked with referees, for objective comment on the performance of the candidates. The successful women will receive complimentary specialised half day training through the Australian Institute of Company Directors or the Australian Institute of Management.
- ACOB has obtained in-principle agreement from a number of reputable companies to be involved in boardroom functions for the project participants and to consider project participants for board vacancies.
- The project will address the current gender imbalance in private sector company directorships.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 42 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise, provide and arrange for the provision of training for women to enable them to become company directors.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 3 June 2001.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 46 of 1998

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal constituted by the President pursuant to Section 182 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Act by Priority Care Plus Pty Ltd. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and appoint gender specific attendant care workers.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and appoint gender specific and ethnic attendant care workers.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- Priority Care Plus ("PCP") specialises in the provision of attendant care, personal assistance, home help, respite care, child care and recreation services for people recovering from injury or illness, the aged and those with disabilities and very young children.
- PCP offers healthcare services in participation with the client, family and the community and aims to maximise the independence of the client within their home environment and within the community.
- The duties required of a carer can be personal in nature to the client, these involve personal hygiene and safety, sleeping over at a client's home, swimming programmes and recreational exercise. There are also requests for a particular ethnic background because of the cultural requirements of the client.
- PCP wishes to offer their clients the most appropriate person to be carer. If the client requests a certain gender the applicant wants to comply with their requests. The applicant wishes to maximise their client's choice of carer.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for and appoint gender specific attendant care workers.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 3 June 2001.

EXEMPTION

Application No. 35 of 1998

The Anti-Discrimination Tribunal constituted by the President pursuant to Section 182 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 ("the Act") has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Act by the Bendigo Health Care Group Ethics and Research Committee ("BHCGERC"). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for a male and/or female candidate for membership on the BHCGERC to meet the requirements for membership in accordance with the National Health and Medical Research Council Act 1992 Guidelines.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 34, 35, 37, 42, 59, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for a male and/or female candidate for membership on the BHCGERC to meet the requirements for membership in accordance with the National Health and Medical Research Council Act 1992 Guidelines.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- Section 7 of the National Health and Medical Research Council Act 1992 ("the NHMRC Act") states:-

Functions of the Council

- (1) The functions of the Council are:

- (a) to inquire into, issue guidelines on, and advise the community on matters relating to: . . .
- (iv) public health research and medical research; and
- (v) ethical issues relating to health; and

- Section 8 of the NHMRC Act states:-

Ethic Guidelines

- (1) Without limiting any of the matters on which the Council may issue guidelines under subparagraph 7(1)(a)(v), the Council must issue guidelines under that subparagraph for the conduct of the medical research involving humans;
- (2) The guidelines for the conduct of medical research involving humans must be issued precisely as developed by the Principal Committee known as the Australian Health Ethics Committee and provided to the Council for the purpose.

- The Australian Health Ethics Committee is a body established by the Minister administering the NHMRC Act, and has a diverse range of members many of whom are required to be appointed after consultation with the relevant Ministers of States and Territories.
 - Under the NHMRC Act the NHMRC has issued guidelines. One of those guidelines is called the NHMRC Statement on Human Experimentation and Supplementary Notes 1992. That guideline sets out principles for the conduct of experimentation on humans and for the Constitution of Institutional Ethics Committee to advise on, approve and monitor that experimentation - see Supplementary notes - Supplementary Note 1 (1992) - Institutional Ethics Committees, where Point 4 states the composition of the Committee must include "laywoman not associated with the institution; layman not associated with the institution . . ."
 - The Terms of Reference of the applicant's Ethics Committee states that the Membership of that Committee shall consist of a nominee of the General Managers who shall be the Chairperson, a Network Medical Administrator, and representatives from the following; 2 persons from the Medical Staff Association, one with research experience, a Hospital Medical Officer, a Director of Nursing or delegate and two nursing staff, a representative from Allied Health and Department of Psychiatry, a qualified solicitor and a clergyman not associated with the hospital, and a male and female to represent an ethical/philosophical viewpoint.
 - The functions of the committee are to act as an authority to research projects received at the Dandenong Hospital and approve or disapprove Cross Network research proposals on behalf of other Network Ethics Committees; maintain a register and keep surveillance of all proposed research projects until their completion to conform with approved ethical standards; to act as an advisory group to General Managers on ethical issues; provide a resource to health professionals and others in the organisation; identify ethics related educational needs of staff and make recommendations to General Managers; act as a forum to increase ethics and health care understanding; review and make recommendations on issues of ethics and protocols related to research on patients or staff procedures and receive ethical issues referred to the Committee from recognised and established groups in the hospital, heads of Departments, or individual Committee members.
 - The exemption is required so that the applicant can comply with the NHMRC guidelines.
 - The functions that the applicant's Committee performs are important. It is a Multi-disciplinary Committee with representatives offering a diverse range of skills and experience. Given its functions, it is important that the committee also includes representatives of men and women and the range of its membership conforms to the range of memberships of other similar committees in other States and Territories of the Commonwealth and in the Commonwealth itself.
- The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 34, 35, 37, 42, 59, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for a male and/or female candidate for membership on the BHCGERC to meet the requirements for membership in accordance with the National Health and Medical Research Council Act 1992 Guidelines.
- This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 27 May 2001.
