A One-day seminar

Investigative Interviewing Techniques

An essential skill in the collection of evidence during the investigative process is the ability of the investigator to elicit information from a wide range of people from different cultural and socio-economic backgrounds. Eliciting this information is an inexact and often difficult process requiring certain skills, insights and an understanding of human nature.

Education Design Systems Pty Limited, a quality endorsed professional development and vocational education organisation is offering a one-day seminar which aims to:

- * promote an appreciation of the relevance and importance of interviews in the investigative process;
- * provide insights into the legal implications involved in investigative interviews; and
- * provide insights into the knowledge and skills necessary to create an atmosphere in which the initial desire by the interviewee to remain silent is replaced by a willingness to confide in the interviewer.
