Environment Protection Act 1970

ORGANOTIN ANTIFOULING PAINTS

The Environment Protection (Organotin Antifouling Paint) Regulations 1989 sunsetted on 1st June 1999.

These Regulations restricted the application of toxic organotin (tributyltin - TBT) antifouling paint to vessels greater than 25 metres in length, subject to prior written approval. Application to watercraft less than 25 metres, and any other marine structures was prohibited.

EPA has reviewed the Regulations and proposes to continue controls via a Notifiable Chemical Order made under Section 30D of the Environment Protection Act 1970.

The purpose of the proposed Order is to provide a system for the sale, supply and application of organotin antifouling paints. By proposing controls on sale, and continuing to restrict application of organotin antifouling paint, the marine environment will continue to be protected.

An impact assessment for the proposed Order, which examines the benefits and costs of implementation of the proposed controls, has been prepared and is available for public comment. The Impact assessment finds that the benefits of the proposed Order outweigh any costs associated with its implementation.

Public comments are sought on the proposed Order and Impact Assessment by 2 August 1999. The draft Order and Impact assessment can be obtained by contacting Dr Tania Bezzobs, Project Manager Organotin Antifouling Paints, EPA, GPO Box 4395QQ, Melbourne VIC. 3001.

LATE NOTICES

EXEMPTION

Application No. 30 of 1999

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Therese Binns. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise as a "Women's Therapeutic Masseuse and Fitness Trainer".

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 42, 100 & 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise as a "Women's Therapeutic Masseuse and Fitness Trainer".

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The Applicant works from home alone treating clients in her own premises.
- The Applicant has a special interest in women's preventative health care, regarding her services as preventative in respect of massage preventing injury to tight muscles, which are stretched properly.
- The Applicant also provides personal training services, which raises the level of well being as well as managing weight excess, which in turn prevents minor illnesses and deals with general stress factors such as fatigue.
- Clients have a preference for a female only environment which they find is comfortable, less embarrassing and safer given that there is a need for clients to undress when massage is performed.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 42, 100 & 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to advertise as a "Women's Therapeutic Masseuse and Fitness Trainer".

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 9 June 2002.

STYLE REQUIREMENTS.

To ensure that material received can be reproduced, and that errors are minimised, the following guidelines are to be observed when submitting material by fax.

Fax resolution:

Material sent by fax should be transmitted using Fine Resolution (200 dots per inch by 200 dpi).

Font size:

Use 12 point (10 pitch) or larger.

Font Style:

Clear plain font styles, such as Helvetica, should be used.

Graphics:

Line drawings should be transmitted as large as possible to ensure clarity. Drawings up to A4 size sent by fax using Fine Resolution provide a good quality for reproduction.

Italics, underlining and full justification.

Ensure document is square when sending as documents that are sent skewed are difficult to read and process.
