EXEMPTION

Application No. A264 of 2000

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Carey Baptist Grammar School Ltd. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for prospective female students to enter the school, and to structure its waiting lists, allocate student placements and offer bursaries and enrolments targeted at prospective female students, so as to promote a gender balance of the students at the school.

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 37, 42, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for prospective female students to enter the school, and to structure its waiting lists, allocate student placements and offer bursaries and enrolments targeted at prospective female students, so as to promote a gender balance of the students at the school.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- Carey Baptist Grammar School was established on 13 February 1923 as an independent church boys' school and in 1979 the school became co-educational;
- The decision to become co-educational was based on a strongly held belief in the philosophical importance of co-education and a determination to offer the best educational opportunities for the students of the school;
- The school currently comprises a Donvale Campus, which conducts classes from Kindergarten to Grade 6, and a Kew Campus, which conducts classes from Kindergarten to Year 12.
- In order to enhance the ability of the school to implement the philosophy of equal opportunity and to maximise the advantages of co-education, the school seeks to establish a 50/50 student balance;
- The school was granted a previous exemption from Sections 37, 42, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 on 25 September 1997, operative from 2 October 1997, which was to remain in force until 1 October 2000.
- Since the original exemption was granted, the percentage of female students attending the school has grown from 34% to 39%, particularly in the middle school (years 7–9 inclusive), the main target of the measures for which the exemption was sought. The percentage of female students increased from 25% in 1997 to 35% in 2000.
- While the percentage of female students has increased, an equal gender ratio is yet to be reached, leaving some classes to be solely constituted by male students, particularly in the middle school.
- The school believes that the mix of genders in a wide range of educational activities is valuable for young people in testing their aspirations, imaginations and relationships, in building self-confidence and presentations skills, and raising self esteem; and in confirming their developing personalities and inter-personal interaction patterns;

- The school believes that gender mix enhances students' individual learning styles and techniques and believes that students benefit from being exposed to the different thinking and processing styles generally considered peculiar to each sex;
- An equal gender ratio is yet to be achieved at the school, so the full benefits of co-education are not yet available to all students attending the school.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operations of Sections 37, 42, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for prospective female students to enter the school, and to structure its waiting lists, allocate student placements and offer bursaries and enrolments targeted at prospective female students, so as to promote a gender balance of the students at the school.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 26 July 2003.
