NOTICE OF PRICE DETERMINATION

Pursuant to the Grain Handling and Storage Act 1995 (Vic) the Office of the Regulator-General Victoria made the following determination on Monday 26 June 2000:

PRICE DETERMINATION

A provider of prescribed services must comply with the grain handling pricing principles in relation to the prices (prescribed prices) for such services.

PRESCRIBED SERVICES

Prescribed services are the services provided within the regulated industry in the Port of Geelong and the Port of Portland of:

- receiving;
- moving;
- inspecting;
- testing;
- stock control;
- weighing; and
- elevating and loading grain on to ships,

by utilising elevators, shipping spouts and weighing and testing equipment owned before 30 June 1995 by Grain Elevator Board.

GRAIN HANDLING PRICING PRINCIPLES

1. The maximum price for each of the prescribed services shall be published (the published price) together with:
  - (a) description of the service; and
  - (b) the terms and conditions for the supply of that service,as a schedule of published prices in at least 2 newspapers widely circulating in rural Victoria in September of each year for the coming harvest and shall be publicly available on request.
2. A published price may be a single price for more than one prescribed services (a bundled service) provided that:
  - (a) where a published price is for a bundled service which is directly connected to the receipt of grain at the port, the bundled service does not include a service directly connected to the outloading of grain on to ships; and
  - (b) where a published price is for a bundled service which is directly connected to the outloading of grain on to ships, the bundled service does not include a service directly connected to the receipt of grain at the port.

Note: The following are examples of a bundled service:

- a receipt service, comprising the services of receiving, moving, inspecting, testing, stock control and weighing of grain on its receipt at the port;
  - an outloading service, comprising the services of elevating and loading grain on to ships and associated weighing and testing.
3. There may be separate published prices for the same services in respect of different types and grades of grain provided that any difference in the published price of a service for different types or grades of grain is only attributable to verifiable differences in the cost of providing the service for the different types or grades of grain.
  4. There may be separate published prices for receipt of, but not the outloading of:
    - (a) general deliveries of grain ex farm;

- (b) grain that is delivered in accordance with a pre-existing arrangement at the port for immediate loading on a nominated ship (just in time delivery), provided that any difference in the published price is only attributable to verifiable differences in costs associated with that mode of receipt.
5. There may be a separate published price for receiving grain delivered:
- (a) by rail;
- (b) by road,
- provided that any difference in the published price is only attributable to verifiable differences in costs of receiving grain by that mode of transport.
6. The published price for a prescribed service shall not include a component for the provision of a non-prescribed service.
7. Each published price must reflect the specific costs of providing the prescribed service or a bundle of services to which it relates, and shall not recover the costs of providing any other service.

The effect of the Price Determination is that Vicgrain must comply with the Grain Handling Pricing Principles in providing prescribed services at the Port of Geelong and the Port of Portland.

The determination will take effect from the date of publication of the next Victorian Government Gazette on 3 July 2000.

The purpose and reasons for the Office making the Price Determination are given in the Price Determination incorporating Grain Handling Pricing Principles published by the Office on 29 June 2000.
