EXEMPTION

Application No. A378 of 2002

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act), by “Flat Out” (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ women only as support and resource workers.

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application, and upon hearing Ms Dallas Taylor, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ women only as support and resource workers.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- “Flat Out” has been established since 1988 to work specifically with women after their release from prison and their dependant children;
- a high percentage of women in prison have been sexually assaulted and many are the survivors of incest and it is appropriate to provide a service for women by women to ensure a safe and protective environment.
- “Flat Out” has a team of 5 support and resource workers and one administrator.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ women only as support and resource workers.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 28 November 2005.

Fair Trading Act 1999

PERMANENT BAN ORDER PROHIBITING THE SUPPLY OF DANGEROUS GOODS

I, Christine Campbell, Minister for Consumer Affairs, pursuant to the powers conferred on me by Division 1 of Part 3 of the Fair Trading Act 1999 (the Act) hereby make a permanent ban order prohibiting the supply in Victoria of the following goods:

Goods known by the name “BB Air Sport Gun” or “Pietro Beretta” or by any other name, that are projectile toys where the energy of the projectile is controlled by a discharge mechanism (for example, a spring or pneumatic system) and that do not comply with clauses 7.15.3(a) and/or 7.15.3(b) of Australian Standard AS 1647.2–1992, Children’s toys (safety requirements) Part 2: Constructional requirements. Clauses 7.15.3(a) and (b), and Appendix DD of the Australian Standard AS 1647.2–1992, are set out in the Schedule to this Order.

In this permanent ban order:

“discharge mechanism” means a device capable of releasing stored energy to propel a projectile; and
“projectile” means an airborne object propelled by hand or by means of a discharge mechanism, including unrestrained objects and objects that are restrained at the end of a string, elastic or other form of attachment, such as those from pop guns; and
“toy” means an object or a number of objects manufactured and designed and/or labelled and/or marketed as a plaything for a child or children up to the age of 14 years.

I make this permanent ban order on the recommendation of Dr David Cousins, Director of Consumer Affairs Victoria, in accordance with section 40(2)(a) of the Act.

Dated 19 November 2002

CHRISTINE CAMPBELL MP
Minister for Consumer Affairs

SCHEDULE

THIS SCHEDULE COMPRISES AN EXTRACT FROM AUSTRALIAN STANDARD AS 1647.2–1992. PERMISSION TO REPRINT THIS EXTRACT HAS BEEN GIVEN BY STANDARDS AUSTRALIA.

CLAUSES 7.15.3(a) AND (b) AND APPENDIX DD OF THE AUSTRALIAN STANDARD AS 1647.2–1992, CHILDREN’S TOYS (SAFETY REQUIREMENTS) PART 2: CONSTRUCTIONAL REQUIREMENTS.

7.15.3 Projectile toys where the energy of the projectile is controlled by discharge mechanism

Where a toy (e.g. a dart gun or a pop gun) has a discharge mechanism that is designed to eject a projectile in such a manner that the energy of the projectile is controlled by the discharge mechanism (e.g. a spring or pneumatic system) then —

- (a) when tested in accordance with Appendix DD, the toy shall not cause more than 2 out of the 10 test foils to rupture; and
- (b) the discharge mechanism shall be so designed that it will not discharge any other type of readily available projectile (e.g. a stone, pencil or nail) which would present a potential eye injury hazard.

APPENDIX DD

TEST FOR PENETRATION OF PROJECTILES

(Normative)

DD1 SCOPE This Appendix sets out a test method for determining whether a projectile ejected by a discharge mechanism in a toy will penetrate (i.e. rupture) a thin diaphragm.

Note: Clause 7.15.3 specifies the compliance requirements for the test in this Appendix.

DD2 PRINCIPLE A toy that ejects a projectile by a discharge mechanism is positioned a specified distance from a diaphragm made of specified aluminium foil. The projectile is then ejected by the discharge mechanism such that the projectile strikes the approximate centre of the diaphragm. The diaphragm is then visually examined to see whether or not the projectile penetrated (i.e. ruptured) the diaphragm.

NOTE: The principle of this test method was based on studies by Newton*, and Stewart≈ which established the formula –

$VR^{0.9} = \text{constant}$  where

$V$  = velocity for penetration into an eye

$R$  = radius of the impacting steel sphere

Using the apparatus specified in the Appendix, it was shown that with domestic cooking aluminium foil as the penetration medium, the relationship  $VR^{0.9}$  was also equal to a constant but this latter constant was between 8 and 10 times less than the constant for the penetration of an eye. Accordingly, the aluminium foil was considered to be a satisfactory test medium because it would provide a safety factor of between 8 and 10. Although this safety factor appeared high, it was considered to be appropriate because the eye experiment related to penetration of the eye which would result in serious eye injury, whereas the purpose of this test method is to prevent injury.

A subsequent study by Hughes and Malone≠, in which a number of commercially available toys were subjected to the method specified in this Appendix, endorsed the method as being meaningful.

DD3 APPARATUS The following apparatus is required:

- (a) Aluminium foil complying with the requirements of Paragraph DD4.
NOTE: Aluminium foil of the domestic cooking type is probably satisfactory.
- (b) A frame made from Perspex or other rigid material, essentially as shown in Figures DD1 to DD3, or its equivalent, for clamping the aluminium foil. The frame shall include a pair of size No. 339 O-rings complying with AS 2842. Suitable means (e.g. a pair of feet as shown in Figure DD1) shall also be provided to securely incline the frame at an angle of  $15 \pm 1^\circ$  to the horizontal.
- (c) Suitable clamps having a clamping force of  $35 + 5, - 0$  N to uniformly clamp the aluminium foil in the supporting frame.
NOTE: Four bulldog paper clamps, each having a jaw width of approximately 65 mm, were found to be satisfactory.
- (d) A steel ball having a nominal diameter of 15 mm and a mass of 14 g.
- (e) A suitable device for measuring distance.

DD4 TEST FOIL

DD4.1 Samples From a roll of aluminium foil, cut out twenty samples measuring 105 mm x 105 mm. Ensure that each sample is free from obvious imperfections including creases or wrinkles. Ten samples of aluminium foil are required to verify the quality of the aluminium foil and ten samples are required to test the toy.

NOTES:

- 1 This Standard requires that the same toy undergo all the relevant normal use and reasonably foreseeable abuse tests only.
- 2 A lightly impressed pattern on the aluminium foil is not to be regarded as a crease or wrinkle.

DD4.2 Foil verification The quality of the foil shall be verified as follows:

- (a) Place one of the samples of foil between the two O-rings of the clamping frame and clamp it such that the foil diaphragm is evenly tensioned with no creases or wrinkles.
- (b) Place the clamping frame on a substantially horizontal surface such that the foil diaphragm makes an angle of  $15 \pm 1^\circ$  with the horizontal surface.

≠ HUGHES J. G. & MALONE B.D., Safety evaluation of projectile toys with reference given to eye injuries, March 1986.

- (c) Position the steel ball such that when it is released it would fall freely through a vertical distance of 300 mm to strike the central 25 mm diameter area of the foil diaphragm.
- (d) Examine whether the foil diaphragm ruptured, as specified in Paragraph DD4.3.
- (e) If the steel ball does not rupture the foil diaphragm, repeat Steps (a) to (d) a further four times (provided that each time the foil diaphragm does not rupture) using a new foil sample each time.
- (f) If all five of the foil diaphragms do not rupture, repeat Steps (a) to (d) using a new foil sample, but this time drop the steel ball through a height of 500 mm.
- (g) If the ball causes the foil diaphragm to rupture, as specified in Paragraph DD4.3, repeat Steps (f) a further four times (provided that each time, the foil diaphragm does rupture) using a new foil sample each time.

DD4.3 Interpretation The foil diaphragm shall be considered as not ruptured if it shows, without magnification, no split or hole. A mere dent shall not be considered as a rupture.

The foil diaphragm shall be considered as ruptured if the foil shows, without magnification, a split or hole.

The ten remaining foil samples shall be considered as being verified (and as such suitable for testing appropriate projectile toys) if all five samples that were subjected to the ball drop height of 300 mm did not rupture and all five samples that were subjected to the ball drop height of 500 mm did rupture.

DD5 TEST SPECIMEN The test specimen shall be the whole toy, which is to be representative of the bulk and not have been subjected to any normal use or reasonably foreseeable abuse prior to testing the toy in accordance with this Appendix.

DD6 PROCEDURE The procedure shall be carried out in a conditioned environment as follows:

- (a) Clamp one of the verified foil samples between the two O-rings of the clamping frame such that the foil diaphragm is evenly tensioned with no crease or wrinkles.
- (b) Place the clamping frame such that the foil diaphragm lies in a substantially vertical plane.
- (c) Load the projectile into the discharge mechanism.
- (d) Position the toy such that –
  - (i) the end of the toy, i.e. the end of the projectile or the end of the discharge mechanism, whichever protrudes the furthest, is 150 mm from the foil diaphragm; and
  - (ii) when the projectile is ejected, the flight path of the projectile will be substantially normal relative to the foil diaphragm and the projectile will strike the central 25 mm diameter area of the foil.
- (e) Eject the projectile.
- (f) Observe whether the projectile ruptures the foil diaphragm as specified in Paragraph DD4.3.
- (g) Repeat Steps (a) to (f) a further nine times. For each repeat, use a verified foil sample which was not previously used.

DD7 REPORT The following shall be reported:

- (a) The number of times the projectile ruptured the foil diaphragm when the toy was tested in accordance with Paragraph DD6.
- (b) Reference to this test method (i.e. AS 1647.2, Appendix DD).
