EXEMPTION

Application No. A224/2008

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, by Southern Health – Mental Health Program. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ as Director, Consumer and Carer Relations, a person with personal lived experience of mental illness (that is, who has had a mental illness) (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted the applicant has previously been granted Exemption A328 of 2005.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 1 September 2011.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A225/2008

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, by Women's Health Goulburn North East. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to restrict full membership of the organisation to women only and to advertise for and employ women only (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The object of the service is to maintain a women's health service that is community based and run by women for women, thereby creating an environment that is accessible, non-threatening and comfortable, where confidentiality and respect for the women's perspective is attributed the highest priority.
- It may be threatening to the women members for men to attend meeting and vote on issues affecting women.
- The Tribunal notes the applicant has previously been granted Exemptions, A253 of 2000 and A368 of 2003.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 1 September 2011.

Dated 22 September 2008

HER HONOUR JUDGE HARBISON
Vice President

EXEMPTION

Application No. A238/2008

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by the Supreme Court of Victoria. The application for exemption is to enable the Applicant to engage in the exempt conduct. 'Exempt conduct' means –

- to establish an Indigenous Associateship Program; and
 - to employ Indigenous persons as associates for that purpose; and
 - to advertise that program.
- 'Indigenous person' means a person who –
- is descended from an Aboriginal person or a Torres Strait Islander; and
 - identifies as an Aboriginal person or Torres Strait Islander; and
 - is accepted as an Aboriginal person or Torres Strait Islander by an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander community.

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 42, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- Indigenous people are under-represented in law courses conducted by Victorian universities and in the Victorian legal profession. As at August 2007, there was one Indigenous barrister in Victoria and of the 12,104 practicing lawyers in Victoria, 16 were Indigenous people. Although the numbers of Indigenous people entering law courses in Victoria is growing, the numbers who complete those courses still remains small. There are no Indigenous associates in the Supreme Court or County Court.
- Indigenous law students and lawyers identify as barriers to their participation in law courses and the legal profession the lack of tailored entry level programs, cultural isolation and financial difficulties.
- Recently, a number of programs have begun to address some of these disadvantages, but more programs are needed. Some of these programs include programs under the Victorian Aboriginal Justice Agreement of May 2000 (a partnership between government and various Indigenous organisations), summer clerkships offered by various law firms, scholarships for Indigenous people and the fund recently set up by the Victorian Bar to assist Indigenous barristers.
- The Indigenous Associateship program is one of these measures. It is one way of addressing under-representation of Indigenous people in the legal profession. Its supporters include the Tarwirri association of Indigenous law students and lawyers and a number of judicial officers. The program has received a grant from the Legal Services Board and its commencement was announced at the National Legal Conference on 12 September 2008.
- The program will operate initially as a pilot for a period of 12 months. It is hoped that it will then operate on a continuing basis. It aims initially to offer a position on a 12 month basis to an Indigenous associate. The associate will work in all the court's divisions and will be provided with mentoring. It is anticipated that the associate will help to raise awareness among the Indigenous community of the program and will also promote awareness among the broader community. It is anticipated that the program will assist entry into the legal profession and will encourage those Indigenous people who wish to work in that profession.

- In the long term, the program will help to redress disadvantage and improve opportunities for Indigenous people who wish to become lawyers.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the Applicant from the operation of sections 13, 14, 42, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 24 September 2011.
