EXEMPTION

Application No. A265/2009

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, by the Victorian Electoral Commission (VEC). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a person from Victoria's indigenous community in the position of Indigenous Engagement Officer (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The VEC is an independent, impartial statutory authority which reports directly to parliament. Its primary responsibilities include the conduct of parliamentary, local government and certain statutory elections, maintaining the register of Victorian electors and promoting public awareness and understanding of electoral issues. Its aim is to ensure that all Victorians actively participate in democracy.
- Research indicates that a number of sectors of the community face barriers to civic engagement. These sectors include the Indigenous community, young people, and those from culturally and linguistically diverse communities.
- The primary role of the Indigenous Engagement Officer is to engage with Victoria's Indigenous communities and to provide education in electoral matters in a way that is sensitive to Indigenous cultures and values and is acceptable to Indigenous individuals, organisations and communities.
- To deliver this kind of education effectively, the holder of the position needs to have a deep understanding of Indigenous culture and values, and to be accepted by Indigenous communities and organisations. These aims can be most effectively achieved if the position is filled by someone from within the Indigenous community.
- The objective of the work which will be done by the holder of this position is to increase the engagement of Indigenous Victorians in Victoria's democratic processes. Research undertaken by the Commission shows that many Indigenous Victorians do not enrol to vote or, if enrolled, do not vote, and that many feel disengaged from the electoral process. Some of the reasons for this have to do with the treatment of Australia's Indigenous community in the past, feelings of disenfranchisement, and different models of leadership within the Indigenous communities. The holder of the position needs to have a deep understanding of these issues to be able to deliver education effectively.

- The holder of the position will also be required to liaise closely with Indigenous communities and organisations throughout Victoria, and participate in various partnerships aimed at developing pathways to Indigenous employment and civic participation.
- A focus of the position's role is to be an educator at the grass roots level and on a face to face basis.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 6 January 2013.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A296/2009

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, by the State of Victoria – Department of Education and Early Childhood Development. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a female aide to work with a female student at the Fitzroy High School (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The female student has severe disabilities affecting her movement, communication, and ability to cope with personal issues such as toileting, meals and hygiene.
- Because of the severity of these disabilities she requires a 'one-on-one' aide for all times when she is at the school. This aide will be able to assist her with moving from place to place, communicating, toileting and other hygiene issues, as well as to help her to access education in the classroom and interact with the teachers and other students. Without this, her access to education and her full participation in all school activities would be diminished.

- Although the school has the equivalent of three full-time teachers aides working there, it does not have the capacity to give the one-on-one attention which this student requires without employing a fourth aide.
- The proposal is supported by the school's principal, the teachers and her parents.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 6 January 2013.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A297/2009

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, by the Women's Department of the Monash Student Association (MSA). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to:

1. Provide a women's room – women's only space for women students on the Clayton Campus of Monash University – and to advertise the provision of that space;
2. Advertise and employ a woman in the position of Association's Women's Officer; and
3. Permit women only to be representatives on the Women's Affairs Collective and to permit elected members of that Collective to be elected by women students only

(the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 42, 59, 60, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- Exemptions of a similar kind were granted in 1997, 2000, 2004 and 2007 and the Tribunal adopts the reasons given in granting the exemptions in 1997 and 2000 and notes that those reasons were also adopted in the 2007 exemption for the granting of that exemption.
- The Tribunal is satisfied that there is a continuing need for a women's only space at the Clayton Campus and for a women's collective and women's officer who has specific responsibilities to conduct forums and debates, to disseminate information, and to raise issues specifically concerning women, including issues relating to women's health, and discrimination and sexual harassment against women.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 14, 42, 59, 60, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 6 January 2013.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A299/2009

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, by the Women's Legal Service Victoria. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In this exemption the exempt conduct is to advertise for and employ women only in the following positions:

- CEO
- Principal Lawyer
- Lawyer
- Lawyer
- Legal Educator

- Administrative Assistant
- Lawyer – Law Reform, Education and Practice
- Law Reform and Policy Lawyer
- Community Legal Education Officer
- Finance Officer
- Office Administrator
- Lawyer/Telephone Advice Line Supervisor
- Legal Educator/Lawyer

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application, including the affidavit of Gillian Dallwitz, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant conducts a service which provides to women legal casework and assistance. It specialises in issues concerning relationship breakdown and violence against women. To be provided in the most non-threatening environment, and for the women who use the service to feel secure and comfortable when speaking about legal issues (often concerning violence perpetrated by men), a women-only environment is necessary.
- An exemption in similar terms was previously granted to the applicant in 2006.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 6 January 2013.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A303/2009

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, by the State of Victoria – Department of Education and Early Childhood Development.

The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male integration aide/mentor at the Belvoir Special School (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The school is a special school catering for students with mild to severe intellectual disabilities. The school currently has 20 teacher aides, some of whom work full time and some part time. One of these is male, and he ceases his employment at the school at the end of 2009.
- One of the school's students has multiple disabilities which are of a severe nature and involve violent or challenging behaviour, particularly directed towards females.
- This student, to access education and other facets of school life effectively, needs a 'one on one' teacher's aide to work with him at all the times when he is at school. The school's male teacher aide did this in 2009 but, since he will not be at the school in 2010, another male teacher's aide is necessary.
- The student responds much more positively and much less aggressively to men rather than to women.
- If a male teacher's aide worked with this student, it is expected that this would promote the safety of the student and the safety of others. The positive response of the student to a male teacher's aide would help him to better access education. The male teacher's aide could most appropriately provide him with the additional attendant care and therapy assistance that he needs. The student will be better able to access less structured programs with this assistance.
- This proposal is supported by the school's principal, its teachers, those providing various therapies to the student, and the student's family.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 6 January 2013.
