EXEMPTION

Application No. A67/2010 and A68/2010

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Department of Health and the Department of Human Services for exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of that Act. The application for exemption is to enable the applicants or either of them to advertise for and employ up to 118 indigenous people in positions within the Departments, or either of them ('the exempt conduct').

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application and upon hearing submissions from Ms Jorgensen, Manager, Aboriginal Employment, and for the Reasons for Decision given by the Tribunal on 29 June 2010, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicants to engage in the exempt conduct.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicants from the operation of sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 7 July 2013.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A177/2010

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by the Department of Education and Early Childhood Development. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander (ATSI) persons in up to nine positions as Koori transition coordinators (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The Victorian Aboriginal Economic Development Group and the Victorian Aboriginal Educational Association Incorporated have identified and made recommendations concerning the need for better pathways for ATSI people to help them make the transition from school to higher education or training or employment. This exemption responds to those recommendations.
- The role of the Koori transition coordinators to be employed under this exemption is to help develop those pathways in consultation with the ATSI community and in a culturally appropriate way. They will develop strategies to support ATSI families and young people throughout their schooling, to help the children to develop aspirations and confidence, which will motivate them to participate in the higher education or training that will in turn help them to become employed. Motivation is very important in this area. The coordinators will help to develop links between possible employers, schools, and ATSI families and children so that career pathways can be established.
- It is critical to the success of this initiative that these coordinator positions be held by ATSI people who can communicate with ATSI communities and families and particularly with ATSI children in a way that is culturally appropriate and involves shared understandings.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 7 July 2013.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A178/2010

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Department of Health on its own behalf and on behalf of the organisations listed in the schedule (the applicants). The application for exemption is to enable the applicants to advertise for and employ persons of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander (ATSI) descent in twenty positions with the organisations listed in the schedule for the purposes of the Aboriginal Health Promotion and Chronic Care partnership (AHPACC) (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- Research shows that ATSI people are at a significant disadvantage when compared with non-ATSI Australians in terms of matters such as life expectancy, hospital admissions, and health services. There is a need to address this disadvantage and AHPACC aims to do this.
- The best approach to address these issues is a comprehensive primary health care approach. That approach comprises preventative, curative and rehabilitative services, delivered in a way that is culturally appropriate. It is most effective the earlier it is adopted.
- The approach is reliant on partnership with Aboriginal communities and health organisations, and on the establishment of links between these and general healthcare providers.
- AHPACC has been developed in consultation with these communities and organisations. It aims to increase access to health services by ATSI people and to better direct that service delivery.
- The roles to be performed by those employed under the exemption will be determined in consultation with the ATSI communities in which they are to work. They will include service delivery and coordination, group education, advising on the development of community plans, health promotion initiatives, and initiatives to support those with chronic diseases. The staff will work in those areas in Victoria where there are significant ATSI populations or significant difficulties in access to services.

- Staff employed under the exemption will be provided with supports including mentoring.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 7 July 2013.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A176/2010

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application, pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, by Melbourne City Council. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male social worker in its Family Services Branch (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The Council's Family Services Branch is an integrated service program comprising maternal and child health services, parenting services, and family support and counselling services. It provides its services to women and men, and deals with issues such as family violence, mental health issues, drug and alcohol abuse issues, and issues that impact on the safety and wellbeing of children or cause stress and affect parenting.
- Currently, the Service has 40 staff, all of whom are women. Research shows that there is a need for those who access the Service to be able to deal with a male staff member if they choose to do so, and that giving this choice is critical to the success of service provision. This exemption aims to provide users of the Service with that choice.

Application No. A175/2010

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Swan Hill Rural City Council. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and recruit an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person as a trainee (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The Swan Hill Rural City Council wishes to support Indigenous employment opportunities and assist the Council to connect with local Aboriginal communities.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 7 July 2010.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A158/2010

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by the Department of Primary Industries (the Department) for exemption from sections 13, 14, 37, 42, 100 and 195 of that Act. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to –

- advertise for and provide up to two scholarships per year for Indigenous undergraduates;
- advertise for and recruit up to ten Indigenous trainees per year into traineeships with the Department;
- advertise for and provide up to two places per year within the Department's graduate program; and
- advertise for and employ up to five Indigenous people per year in ongoing positions in the Department

(the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 37, 42, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- Indigenous Australians suffer various kinds of disadvantage when compared with non-Indigenous Australians, including in education, training and employment. This exemption is aimed at redressing some of that disadvantage. It also aims to address the commitment made by the Council of Australian Governments to halve the gap between Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians within a decade.
- The Department recognises that increased Indigenous employment leads to better outcomes for Indigenous families and communities, and lessens issues such as alienation.
- The proposal aims to provide a pathway from education, through training, to employment. The Department recognises that those who complete year 12 at school have a greater chance of undertaking higher education and successfully obtaining employment.

- At present, there is significant under-representation of Indigenous Victorians in the Department's workforce. This proposal will help to address this issue. It will also increase workforce diversity.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 14, 37, 42, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 7 July 2013.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A160/2010

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Northern Centre Against Sexual Assault (NCASA) for exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of that Act. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a woman in the position of senior counsellor/advocate (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- NCASA is one of 15 similar centres funded by the Department of Human Services. Its primary role is to provide counselling, advocacy and support services to victims and survivors of sexual assault, and family members and others with a close relationship to them. The role of the senior counsellor/advocate is to lead a clinical team of counsellors and advocates, but also to provide 'front line' counselling, advocacy and support services.
- Most of NCASA's male and female clients request help from a woman rather than from a man. Because of this, the Centre needs more female than male counsellors and advocates. It is important to be able to provide gender-appropriate assistance to the Centre's clients because they are in crisis situations, and it is crucial to establish trust if they are to be assisted appropriately. This can most easily be done by a counsellor/advocate of a gender of the client's choice.

- The team manager also provides counselling and advocacy services where there are insufficient staff to provide these services. By providing frontline services the manager is able to get the practical knowledge needed to be a service provider and a team manager.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 7 July 2013.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A166/2010 and A167/2010

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Magistrates' Court of Victoria for exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of that Act. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander (ATSI) man in the position of Koori Men's Family Violence Court Support Worker and an ATSI woman in the position of Koori Women's Family Violence Court Support Worker (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The Koori Men's Family Violence Program and the Koori Women's Family Violence Program are initiatives of the Department of Justice and are to be trialled initially at the Melbourne Magistrates' Court. It is envisaged that each of these workers will work with clients of their own gender. In this way, it will be ensured that clients of the program are treated in a culturally appropriate way and will respond better to the support given by the program. Each of the programs aims to treat Indigenous perpetrators or victims of family violence. The program assesses the client's needs and develops a plan to address them.
- A major focus of the programs is to deal with the impact of family violence on Indigenous families and communities. It is recognised that many complex cultural issues arise, including secret men's business and secret women's business. These cannot be dealt with except by a person of the appropriate gender.
- It is hoped that provision of this kind of support will lessen cultural barriers to accessing these programs.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 13, 14, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 7 July 2013.
