Authorisation A0587

In accordance with section 8A(3) of the Planning and Environment Act 1987, the Minister for Planning authorised Maroondah City Council, as planning authority, to prepare the Amendment.

The Amendment affects all land within the City of Maroondah.

The Amendment proposes the implementation of the Maroondah Urban Design Framework, which was adopted by Council in November 2006. The Maroondah Urban Design Framework was developed to identify Maroondah's distinct urban form and assist in enhancing the community's sense of place.

The Amendment ensures Maroondah has clear and concise guidelines for future development and that the distinctive physical, environmental, social and economic characteristics of Maroondah are supported and protected.

This Amendment represents the implementation of statutory controls into the Maroondah Planning Scheme that will give effect to the purposes and recommendations set out in the Maroondah Urban Design Framework. Nine existing local policies are proposed to be edited and five new local policies are proposed to be introduced.

EXEMPTION

Application No. A84/2011

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act) by Dhauwurd-Wurrung Elderly and Community Health Service Inc. (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ only Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander people in roles within the organisation (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Roslyn Alexander, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant is a small not-for-profit Aboriginal health service serving the population of the greater Glenelg Shire and Southern Grampians. It provides a range of health services including a full time Aboriginal centre, health and community care and transport services to Aboriginal community members. Its role is to provide culturally appropriate medical and other health services to the Aboriginal community.

- The applicant is currently undergoing change and growth and it anticipates that there may be an increase in staff numbers in the near future. At present it anticipates that it may require up to 12 new employees and wishes to restrict applicants for those roles to Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander people, subject to the nature of the role and the qualifications which are required.

- The applicant believes that it is important that its staff reflect the community it serves. The applicant through its staff have a very good understanding of the issues facing Aboriginal communities and offers a culturally appropriate and stable environment for health services to be provided.

- The applicant has worked to develop expertise within the Aboriginal health sector and has a record of assisting in employing and developing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff. Those experiences have helped individual staff to develop their own careers. Appointing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander persons provides leadership in the Aboriginal community.

- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of non-Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander persons who would wish to be employed by the applicant. I am satisfied that the exemption is a measure taken for the purpose of assisting or advancing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who are disadvantaged and so it does not amount to discrimination under the Charter. In any event, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 20 July 2014.

Application No. A171/2011

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act) by Parks Victoria (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ only women members of the Gunaikurnai Land and Waters Aboriginal Corporation in the field and office based positions which are designated as women only positions (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Gregory Mead, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant and the Gunaikurnai Land and Waters Aboriginal Corporation (the Corporation) have shared responsibility to manage eight parks and reserves in Gippsland Victoria. That is the result of a Federal Court registered Indigenous Land Use Agreement (V12010/003) dated 8 February 2011.
- The Corporation is the registered native title holding body on behalf of the Gunaikurnai people who are the traditional owners and native title holders of approximately 22,000 square kilometres in Gippsland including the parks and reserves referred to above.
- The positions to be designated as women only will be concerned with working on women's issues relating to cultural heritage. The applicant seeks to build effective working relationships between key Gunaikurnai stakeholders, particularly women Elders and the applicant's staff. As these staff will have access to privileged information, it is essential that they have the trust of the Gunaikurnai people and community.
- By offering the designated positions to women members of the Corporation, those women and their families will be benefited, as will be future generations of Gunaikurnai people and the broader community. These staff will help the applicant reach its target of 10% Indigenous staff.

- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of men and other persons who are not members of the Corporation who would wish to be employed by the applicant in the designated roles. I am satisfied that the exemption is a measure taken for the purpose of assisting or advancing Indigenous women who are disadvantaged and so it does not amount to discrimination under the Charter. In any event, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 20 July 2014.

Application No. A172/2011

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act) by Dianella Community Health Inc. (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a female physiotherapist (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Joseph Mizzi, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant receives funding for the purpose of providing a range of health services at no or low cost to residents of a specified catchment area which includes most of The City of Hume and the surrounding suburbs. It operates sites at Meadow Heights, Broadmeadows, Craigieburn, Dallas and Glenroy. The catchment area is diverse and includes people from a wide range of cultural and religious backgrounds. It is the stated mission of the applicant to provide services to all people who require them within its catchment area, taking into account the diversity of the area.

- Within the City of Hume as at 2006, 25% of residents were born in countries other than Australia with the most common countries of birth being Turkey, Iraq, Italy and Lebanon. For the period of 2001–2006, the City of Hume had 6011 new arrivals, mainly from the countries of Iraq, Turkey and Lebanon. The applicant understands that the City of Hume has received the greatest number of arrivals from Iraq than any geographical area in Victoria. Within the City of Hume as at 2006, 13.4% of the population identified themselves as Muslim.
- The applicant currently employs two male physiotherapists and two female physiotherapists, one of whom is part time. The part time employee is vacating the position soon.
- The physiotherapy services provided largely consist of one-on-one consultations with clients. These consultations involve physical manipulation of the client by the physiotherapist whilst the client is in a state of partial undress. The physiotherapist may also be required to provide health education for pre- and post-natal Turkish and Arabic women and may conduct a post-natal support group. As some women refuse to be treated by male physiotherapists on cultural or religious grounds, the applicant wishes to ensure that those female patients can be treated by a woman at the low cost it offers. Otherwise those patients may not be able to afford any physiotherapy services. Accordingly it seeks this exemption.
- A previous exemption on the same terms was granted in 2007 (A187/2009).
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of male physiotherapists who would wish to be employed by the applicant. I am satisfied that in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 20 July 2014.

Application No. A173/2011

The Victorian Civil and Administrative has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act) by Plenty Valley Community Health (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ only a male in the role of Men's Family Violence Practitioner – Enhanced Service Intake Worker (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Lisa Tricarico, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant is a primary health service that provides a range of primary health, dental, disability, population health and social support services in the northern suburbs of Melbourne.
- The applicant has been contracted by the Department of Human Services to operate a Men's Active Referral Service. The Service will contact men referred from local police following family violence incidents to refer and assess their suitability for support and/or counselling services. Given the circumstances in which the men are referred and in order to best deal with the issues raised, it is appropriate that the staff who will make that assessment and offer services are of the same gender.

- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of women who would wish to be employed in the Men's Family Violence Practitioner – Enhanced Service Intake Worker role. I am satisfied that in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

Application No. A186/2011

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act) by Ngwala Willumbong Co-operative Ltd (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ only Aboriginal people in the organisation (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Elayathamby Navaratnam, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant was established in 1975 and currently employs approximately 53 people. It receives funding from both Federal and State governments to provide drug and alcohol services to Aboriginal people. Those services include specialist alcohol and drug residential rehabilitation and outreach services to Aboriginal communities in Victoria.

- The applicant works with its clients in a culturally relevant manner to address issues associated with drug and alcohol use to enhance their spiritual, social, emotional and physical needs. A holistic approach is taken to providing the services to achieve these aims.
- The applicant seeks this exemption as it believes that the services are best provided by Aboriginal people who have the required language and cultural knowledge and who understand issues faced by the clients. In addition, the employment of Aboriginal people increases their personal skills and provides training and employment opportunities which might not otherwise be available to them and in part addresses the lack of suitably skilled and trained Aboriginal people in the community. The applicant believes that a number of Aboriginal people would not access drug and alcohol services if they were not offered by an organisation which is staffed by Aboriginal people.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of non-Aboriginal persons who would wish to be employed by the applicant. I am satisfied that the exemption is a measure taken for the purpose of assisting or advancing Aboriginal people who are disadvantaged and so it does not amount to discrimination under the Charter. In any event, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.
