EXEMPTION

Application No. H68/2013

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by Women's Information & Referral Exchange Inc. (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ only women within the applicant organisation (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Anne Smyth, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 16, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant is an organisation funded by the Victorian Government to provide information, support, counselling, advice, referral and assistance to the women of Victoria. Its clients include women in violent or abusive relationships, women who have survived sexual assault, women who have been assaulted by family members or family friends as children, women who are homeless, refugee women and women of non-English speaking background. Many of the issues raised with the applicant, such as sexual assault and family violence, may be personal, embarrassing, humiliating or private. The applicant's clients may have legitimate fears about discussing such matters with someone of the same gender as their former assailant. Others have religious or cultural reasons for being reluctant to discuss their concerns with a man. It is appropriate that the applicant's services be provided by women.
- The applicant currently employs women in the following positions: Chief Executive Officer, Service Delivery Coordinator, Communication Officer, Finance and Administration Coordinator, Women's Information Centre Coordinator/Officer, Training Coordinator and Business Development Manager, Project Officer & Researcher and Safe Places Project Worker. While the Women's Information Centre Coordinator/Officer and the Service Delivery Coordinators have the most direct contact with women clients, employees in all positions are required to, from time to time, undertake the tasks of providing information, support, advice, referral and assistance to clients.
- In 2001, 2004, 2007 and 2010 the Tribunal granted exemptions to the applicant in respect of the then existing positions within the applicant organisation. The reasons for the need for an exemption are the same as they were on those occasions. The last granted exemption expired on 15 September 2013.
- Section 28 of the Act contains an exception which would allow for the employment of women only where special needs services are being provided to women and where the relevant services are likely to be most effectively provided by other women. While that exception may apply to some of the direct contact, advice and counselling services provided to the applicant's clients, I am not satisfied that the material before me proves that all other services provided by the applicant, can be provided most effectively by women only. Where I am not satisfied that an exception applies to the whole of the exempt conduct but accept that it is preferable that women only work for the applicant whose focus is providing services to and assisting vulnerable women, it is appropriate that an exemption be granted.
- In the circumstances of this case, no exception or current exemption already applies to the exempt conduct and in the absence of an exemption, the exempt conduct would amount to prohibited discrimination.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of men who would wish to be employed by the applicant. I am satisfied that, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 16, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 6 November 2018.

Dated 30 October 2013

EXEMPTION

Application No. A96/2013

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by St Michael's Grammar School (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to:

- (a) advertise for prospective female students to enter the applicant's school so as to promote an equal gender balance at the school;
- (b) structure waiting lists, to allocate student placements, and to offer bursaries, scholarships and enrolments targeted at prospective and existing female students, so as to promote an equal gender balance at the school; and
- (c) advertise these matters

(the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavits of Simon Gipson and Andrew Tomaszewski and having regard to six individual responses to advertising of the application; an earlier exemption which expired on 29 May 2013 and subsequent interim exemptions; and submissions made at a hearing held on 30 October 2013, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 38, 44, 107, and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant is committed to coeducation and implementing the philosophy of equal opportunity. The applicant believes that providing an opportunity to learn in a coeducational environment across a wide range of educational activities is valuable for young people. Coeducation assists students to develop their own aspirations, imaginations and relationships, build their self-esteem and develops their personality and interpersonal interaction patterns. The applicant believes that its coeducational philosophy is an important factor leading to parents making the decision to enrol their children with the school. Any reversal of this policy, an inability to approach gender balance within a realistic timeframe or an inability to maintain an equal gender ratio may result in students of both sexes being withdrawn from the school.
- Statistical information before the Tribunal shows that, despite the previous exemptions, across the school, female students total less than 50% of the school population. As at October 2013, the total student population is 1323, 47.1% of whom are female. The ratio of female to male students in the current year 4, 8, 9, 11 and 12 levels significantly favour male students. At present the number of female applicants on the school's waitlist are significantly less than the males for 2014 (offers for places in year 7 having already been sent out and accepted), 24% of the waitlist is female; for 2015 (offers for places in year 7 having already been sent out), 35% of the waitlist is female; and for 2016 only 43% of the waitlist is female. The consequence is that the applicant may have difficulty maintaining even the current female to male ratios with the usual changes and movements in the composition of the student body over the coming years. The applicant seeks the exemption so that it can maintain the current ratios as well as seek to improve the ratios to reach equality.
- At present, the applicant has no plans to offer bursaries or scholarships to female students but it seeks an exemption in respect of that conduct as a future option.

- Previous exemptions have been granted to the applicant in similar terms since 2007. A recently granted interim exemption is due to expire on 30 November 2013. No exception applies to the exempt conduct and so, after 30 November 2013, in the absence of a further exemption, the exempt conduct would amount to prohibited discrimination.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of male students who would otherwise be offered a place at the school based on the sole basis of their place on a waiting list or be eligible for a bursary or scholarship. I am satisfied that, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 38, 44, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from 1 December 2013 to 30 November 2018. Dated 30 October 2013
