EXEMPTION

Application No. A52/2013

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by Wesley College (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for students of a particular gender to enter the school, to structure its waiting lists, allocate student placements, offer bursaries, scholarships and enrolments to students of a particular gender, and to advertise these matters (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavits of Helen Drennan, Principal of Wesley College, and Andrew McAree, Director of Wesley Global of Wesley College, having heard evidence from Dr Drennan and Mr McAree, having heard submissions made on behalf of the applicant, and having had regard to correspondence from other people in response to the advertising of the exemption application, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant a further exemption from sections 38, 44, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant is an independent private school, established in 1866. It commenced as a boys only school and became co-educational in 1978, becoming a leader in establishing co-education. It has campuses at Elsternwick, Melbourne and Glen Waverley. The decision to provide for co-education was based on the belief of the Council of the College and its senior management that:
 - (a) the College should reflect a microcosm of society – a society where there is roughly an equal balance of the genders;
 - (b) a gender balance would enrich the educational and social development of the students, specifically due to the diversity that interactions between the genders brings to the College experience; and
 - (c) a gender balance would better prepare students for life in a mixed gender society.
- Co-education is provided across all levels in the school, from kindergarten to year 12. The school emphasises the benefits of co-education to both genders by, for example, featuring both genders in promotional materials, developing facilities and programs of appeal to both genders, celebrating the success of students irrespective of gender and offering, for example, financial assistance, leadership opportunities and international engagement opportunities irrespective of gender.
- The applicant seeks to establish a 50/50 student balance in the school, with a medium term goal of 45% of girls. Mr McAree gave evidence that applications for enrolment far exceed the number of places available, so there is no commercial imperative in seeking the exemption. Indeed enrolments are slightly below capacity, in order to ensure that the College maintains as close to a gender balance as possible.
- Exemptions were granted by the Tribunal to the College in 1998, 2001 and 2010, for the same purpose as that which forms the basis for this application.
- The applicant encourages the enrolment of girls, in order to achieve an even balance of enrolments, by adopting many strategies other than seeking this exemption. For example, the school offers programs, facilities and activities considered to be of particular interest to girls, convenes a women's alumni network, and celebrates the success of girls in sports, the arts and academia. It also ensures that published materials reflect a balanced gender ratio, and advertises in publications popular with young girls.
- Statistical evidence before me shows that, currently, the proportion of girls to boys is 43%.

- Dr Drennan gave evidence that, once the proportion of girls in a classroom falls below approximately this percentage, there is a noticeable flow-on effect, as the remaining girls and their families experience this situation as negative. Dr Drennan gave specific examples of this scenario, and described strategies the College employed to ameliorate the effects of unforeseen or unexpected changes in classroom gender ratios, due to, for example, students moving interstate or overseas. Dr Drennan explained that such situations highlight the significance to the culture and philosophical underpinnings of the College of a gender balance being in place.
- The applicant has a significant scholarship program. Dr Drennan gave evidence that 10% of the students in the College received the benefit of a scholarship. The scholarship program is an important component of the structure and value base of the College. Between 350 and 400 scholarships were offered in each of the past four years. Approximately two thirds of these have been taken up by girls. Dr Drennan explained that this is not because they are offered specifically to girls. They are offered on merit. Some of the scholarships are based solely or primarily on academic ability or potential. Others also take into account engagement in community activities, sporting or musical ability or potential, and potential to make a contribution in society. There are different criteria for the scholarships, and it has happened that, for some types of scholarships, a higher number of girls have met the criteria. Gender may be considered as a minor criterion, but only after the merit based process is complete. From 2014, as a result of a bequest, a small number of scholarships will be offered to girls with an interest in and aptitude for maths and science, this being the condition of the bequest. For the scholarship program, therefore, while gender is not a significant factor, the exemption is relied upon.
- There is no gender-based difference in the treatment of female and male students within the school curriculum, programs, activities and other benefits available to students.
- In response to notices placed on the website and sent to parents and families on the waiting list, some correspondence was sent to the College, though not filed with the Tribunal. No one objected to the granting of an exemption. Most comments were supportive of the exemption being granted, and some were simply enquiries as to the process.
- No exception applies to the exempt conduct. In the absence of an exemption, the exempt conduct would amount to prohibited discrimination.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of students who would wish to be offered a place at the school on the sole basis of their place on a waiting list. I am satisfied that, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 38, 44, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force to 30 May 2018.

INTERIM EXEMPTION

Application No. A84/2013

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by the Council of Single Mothers and Their Children Inc. (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ only women, who are or who have been, single mothers (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavits of Kerrie Anne O'Sullivan, Rosa Maria Ljubicic, Melanie Ferguson and Nancy Sarpi, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an interim exemption from sections 16, 107 and 182 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct until the application is finally heard and determined.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant was established in 1969 and has a membership of over 2,400. The applicant's Strategic Plan sets out the applicant's vision which is a society where single mother families are valued and treated equally and fairly. The applicant seeks to achieve these aims by:
Providing an information, support, referral and advocacy service to single mothers;
Providing accurate information and resources to single mothers through regular newsletters, email bulletins, information sheets, forums and its website;
Creating opportunities for single mothers to meet and overcome isolation;
Representing the needs and issues of single mothers through media, working with government and community organisations and research;
Advocating to overturn the social, economic and legal discrimination against single mothers and to raise the status of single mothers and their children.
- Previous exemptions have been granted to the applicant in similar terms, the last of which expired on 19 May 2013. I am not currently satisfied that an exception applies to the exempt conduct. Accordingly, in the absence of an exemption the exempt conduct would amount to prohibited discrimination.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of men and those women who are not or have not been single mothers who wish to be employed by the applicant. I am satisfied that for the purposes of this interim exemption, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an interim exemption from the operation of sections 16, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 29 August 2013.

Application No. A89/2013

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by CSV Limited, operator of Casey Grammar School and Balcombe Grammar School (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant, from time to time, for the purposes of achieving gender balance to:

- (a) structure waiting and enrolment lists to target prospective students of either gender;
 - (b) advertise for prospective male or female students in year levels where future waiting lists show a gender imbalance;
 - (c) allocate student placements and other bursaries and enrolments targeted at prospective male or female students so as to promote a gender balance at the schools; and
 - (d) grant scholarships to male or female students and advertise for such.
- (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Christopher David Gallagher, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an interim exemption from sections 38, 44, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct until the application is finally heard and determined.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The subject schools are low fee, non-denominational Christian schools located in Cranbourne and Mount Martha. Each school is committed to providing a co-educational experience to its students and has done so since each was established. It has recently come to the applicant's attention that the Casey Grammar prep intake for 2014 is made up of 32 males and 11 females. If the school were to continue to choose students from the enrolment list in order of application the remaining seven positions would be offered to male students. This would result in a significant gender imbalance for that year. The applicant seeks the exemption for each school so as to be able to address this and any other gender imbalances in the future.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of students who would wish to be offered a place at the schools based on the sole basis of their place on a waiting list. I am satisfied that for the purposes of this interim exemption, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an interim exemption from the operation of sections 38, 44, 107 and 182 to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 26 August 2013.
