EXEMPTION

Application No H186/2017

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by Djerriwarrah Health Services (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ only males in the role of Men's Behaviour Change Group Facilitator and Men's Active Referral Service Worker (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Faye Nance and the relevant position descriptions, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 16, 18, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant provides acute hospital, aged care, outpatients and primary care services to the Bacchus Marsh, Melton and Caroline Springs communities. Those services include specialist programs for families affected by family violence. Those programs include Men's Behaviour Change Programs which are designed to provide strategies and support to men who engage in violent, abusive and/or controlling behaviour towards family members by providing quality programs, education and mentoring.

- The Men's Behaviour Change Group Facilitator's role involves working with another facilitator who may be male or female. Those facilitators run group and individual programs which aim to address issues of violence and gender. Amongst other things, the facilitators model ways of non-violent engagement between men and women. From time to time the holder of the role may be required to support other family members, including women, by providing information or referrals.
- The Men's Active Referral Service Worker is the first contact for many men being referred to participate in Men's Behaviour Change Programs. It is important and appropriate that the first contact for those men also be male. From time to time, the holder of the role may need to liaise with women and children affected by family violence.
- Given both roles may include engaging with or providing services to women from time to time, the section 28 exemption in the Act may not apply. In those circumstances, in the absence of an exemption, the exempt conduct would amount to prohibited discrimination.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of females who would wish to be employed in the above two roles. I am satisfied that, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 16, 18, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 13 September 2022.

EXEMPTION

Application No H122/2017

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by Women's Liberation Halfway House Inc (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ only women and people who identify as women (female staff) to run the applicant's refuge and provide support services (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Anne Jenkins and having had regard to earlier exemptions on the same terms and the applicant's written submissions, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 16, 44, 52, 107 and 182 of the Act.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant provides high security refuge accommodation and other support services to women and to their children, including boys aged up to 17 years. The women and their children have experienced family violence. The applicant has an office which is located away from the refuge to protect the refuge's location.
- The applicant currently employs seven staff members on a part time basis. They include a service manager, a senior family violence support worker, three family violence support workers, a finance manager and a maintenance worker. All family violence support workers have direct and ongoing contact with clients. The maintenance worker attends to upkeep and the like for the refuge accommodation. That staff member also has regular contact with the clients and their children. The operational staff who attend to management and finance work from the separate office but have regular, incidental contact with the applicant's clients.
- On the available material, I am satisfied that the services provided by the applicant direct to women who have experienced family violence or which are otherwise designed to meet the special needs of women are special needs services under section 88 of the Act. I am further satisfied that the exception contained in section 28 of the Act applies in relation to direct services of that kind. That is because I am satisfied that the services where staff have direct and significant contact with the applicant's clients and which are directed to women's special needs can be most effectively provided by female staff. I am satisfied that, given that the maintenance worker is required to attend the refuge premises and so has regular contact with the applicant's clients, the section 28 exception also applies to that staff member. However, the evidence does not establish that the work of the operational staff can be provided most effectively by female staff. Accordingly, the section 28 exception does not apply to all roles within the applicant organisation. Where I am not satisfied that an exception applies to the services provided by the holder of each role within the applicant organisation but accept that it is preferable that those services be provided by female staff only, it is appropriate that an exemption be granted.

- Previous exemptions have been granted to the applicant in similar terms. The Tribunal granted an interim exemption which expired on 31 August 2017. In the absence of a further exemption, aspects of the exempt conduct would amount to prohibited discrimination.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of men or people who identify as male who wish to be employed by the applicant. I am satisfied that, for the purposes of this exemption, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 16, 44, 52, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 13 September 2022.

2. VEET Shortfall Penalty Rate for the 2017 Compliance Year
