EXEMPTION

Application No. 56 of 1999

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Aboriginal Child Care Agency – Link-Up Victoria. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for a male Aboriginal worker.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to advertise for a male Aboriginal worker.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- Link-Up Victoria assists with tracing and reunions of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples directly affected by Government policies of forced removal of children from their family homes.
- Link-Up currently employ 2 females but are repeatedly receiving requests from male clients and community members for a male worker that they can relate to.
- Whether in an Aboriginal Traditional or urban environment, there is a trend for men and women's business to be dealt with separately in accordance with Aboriginal cultural values, customs and expectations.

- Many male clients, particularly the elderly, do not feel comfortable speaking with a female worker. They feel embarrassed and ashamed to discuss issues of separation and abuse and prefer a male worker.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to advertise for a male Aboriginal worker.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 6 October 2002.

Dated this 30 September 1999.

Ms CATE McKENZIE
Deputy President

EXEMPTION

Application No. 54 of 1999

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Westgate Sports and Leisure Complex. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to open an exclusive ladies only area in the leisure centre's gymnasium and have it staffed by female personnel.

Upon reading the material tendered in support of this application the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 42, 65, 100 and 195 of the Act to open an exclusive ladies only area in the leisure centre's gymnasium and have it staffed by female personnel.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant is a multi purpose sporting facility with a large mixed gymnasium, soccer, cricket, rockclimbing, tennis, netball, volleyball and functions centre providing a range of programs to cater for a range of health needs within the community.
- The applicant wishes to provide further programs suited to women's health issues particularly dealing with osteoporosis, exercise and pregnancy, late on-set of diabetes and breast cancer, all in an area exclusively for women so as they feel safe and comfortable in a non-intimidating environment.

- Programs dealing with these issues can be provided in a mixed gender environment, however it is almost impossible to effectively encourage and motivate women around men who are exercising. Women may feel intimidated by men who are particularly big or strong or who are engaging in exercise involving displays of great physical strength such as the lifting of heavy weights. This environment may be particularly intimidating to women who have in the past experienced sexual assault, abuse or violence from men.
- The Altona area, where the gym is situated, is largely multicultural with a large portion of the local community being of Muslim or Jewish culture, which prohibit women from exercising around or even associating with men.
- Other women's health issues have arisen which has led to the need to provide a separate gym area for women such as: serious eating disorders such as bulimia, weight loss, incontinence, and body image and self-esteem issues. Women prefer these issues to be discussed in an open forum within an area containing only female trainers, medical staff and clientele. Exercises to deal with such issues can also often be embarrassing within the company of men.
- Male's health issues are very different as opposed to females. The type of equipment used and the general acceptance and its appropriateness are much more accepted by men and easier to instruct and teach than women. Strength training equipment is also often too heavy and impractical for the female body.
- Providing a women's only gym area would cater for the issues raised and faced only by women, providing a sanctuary for women of all cultures, body shapes and backgrounds in a safe and comfortable environment, offering equipment suited to the female body as well as female instructors and medical staff.
- The gym, as well as providing an area exclusively for women, will continue to provide other areas where women and men can exercise together.

The Tribunal grants an exemption from the operation of Sections 13, 42, 65, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, to enable the applicant to open an exclusive ladies only area in the leisure centre's gymnasium and have it staffed by female personnel.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 6 October 2002.

Dated 30 September 1999.
